

ARGUMENTS STARTED; TESTIMONY ALL GIVEN

TRIAL OF BERGER AND MEYER DRAWING TO AN END THIS AFTERNOON.

DEFENDANTS TESTIFY

Many Witnesses Examined—Tell Story of the Crime—Defendants' Attorney Makes Rigid Cross Examination.

Testimony in the case of the State of Wisconsin against Edward Meyer and Harry F. Berger, charged with murdering and committing a criminal assault upon Matilda Bergsman on the night of September 30, was completed in the circuit court at twenty minutes to three o'clock this afternoon and the court ordered a recess to be taken to allow the attorneys to look over their notes and prepare their arguments for presentation to the jury. The counsel for the prosecution and defense will make their pleas to the jury and the case will probably be given into the hands of the jury late this afternoon or this evening.

Five witnesses were called by the defense in the trial today, their testimony being brief, and afterward the defense rested its case. Ben Fullerman was put on the stand in rebuttal for the state, and testified that he had not advised Meyer to "keep still" as was testified by Berger this morning. Extracts from the testimony in the preliminary hearing were also read by Attorney Pierce in the rebuttal for the state, and the court ordered the testimony closed as the defense put on no rebuttal.

In the case for the defense, Charles Hoffman, Charles Graessner, and George Hessemauer were witnesses testifying to the good reputation as to truth and veracity of the defendants. Louis Brummond, brother-in-law of Harry Berger, and Walter Schumacher testified to acoustic tests made by them and four others, from the Bergsman home to the Rehfeld barn last night, to determine if cries could be heard across the river. They also told of a similar test made on the night of the eighteenth. The wind last night was from the south or southwest, and Brummond heard only one call from across the river, while Schumacher had heard none, but had heard other sounds. Walter Meyer a brother of Edward Meyer, one of the defendants, testified that nine calls had been made from the Bergsman home, three each by Adolph Nickel, Otto Meyer and himself. The wind, he said, was from the southeast.

Sordid, lawdy details of the attack on Matilda Bergsman, with her consent, as they testified, were related by Edward Meyer and Harry Berger this morning. The defendants were put on the stand today by Attorney Thomas S. Nolan to testify in their own defense, and the events of that evening, and some events subsequent were told of by the two defendants.

The testimony teemed with vulgarities and the recital of passion and the intensity of the two young men on the night of the alleged murder. Meyer, aged 19, the older of the young men, was first called to the stand, and after telling facts concerning his age, his family and his employment, related the events of the evening; of going down town to the Knipp saloon with Berger and Ed Bladorn, later to the Royal theatre, and finally returning to the saloon where they remained until eleven o'clock.

He said that he had drunk about thirty-five large glasses of beer in the saloon during the evening, and admitted that he must have been drunk when he left, although he was able to walk. He testified that he and Berger had taken Fred Bergsman home that night, all three of them falling frequently on the way although Bergsman fell more frequently than the others. He then went on with the recital of the events at the Bergsman home, details of which were very immoral.

After the attack, he said he and Berger had carried the woman into the house and told the old man that she was dead. He remembered meeting Ben Fullerman at the corner of Center and Grand avenue, but as to what was said, he could not testify. He said, however, that the woman had not screamed, nor had not been willing when the attack was made, and denied that he had in any way done anything to cause her to suffocate.

One scratches on his face which had been noticed by his employer the next morning, he said, were received when he and Berger were helping Bergsman to arise. Bergsman scratching the right side of his face near the mouth. Meyer denied that he had told Grover Horn his face had been scratched by a woman, but admitted that he had told Horn he was mixed up in the Bergsman case.

In answer to questions from his attorney, the defendant said that what had made a misstatement in the statement made to Chief of Police Appleby, and Mr. Nolan asked the witness to tell where the difference was, but objections to this were raised by Attorney Pierce and were sustained by the court on the ground that the statement had not been submitted by the prosecution.

On cross-examination as to details of the story he had related, Meyer's answers were for the most part indefinite and uncertain, being "I don't know or I don't remember," although his answers to some of the questions were perfectly plain and clear.

Berger's testimony in many particulars, especially with regard to going to the saloon, taking Bergsman home, and the attack on the girl, was similar. His statements with regard to whether or not he had attacked time he had thought Meyer was "stewed" and trying to "kid" him, caused considerable laughter among the audience in the court room and the court had to call for order and warn them against further noisiness. Meyer, Horn said, had acted as if he were nervous or had been drinking.

STUDENT VOLUNTEERS MEET AT PRINCETON

Missionary Workers and Students From All Over World Present—Noted Speakers on Program.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 22.—The annual convention of the Student Volunteer Movement, representing a world-wide constituency of missionary students and workers, begins its sessions at Princeton University this evening and continues them over Sunday. Several hundred students and professors of colleges and universities are delegates. Foreign missionaries from many parts of the world are on hand. Representatives from most of the mission boards in the United States and Canada are also here.

Prominent among those who will address the conference are Rev. John H. Lowett, D. D., pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York; Harlan P. Beach, professor of missions at Yale; Rev. C. A. R. Janvier, pastor of the Holland Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia; William T. Oldham, bishop of the M. E. church; Robert E. Spear, secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions; Isaac T. Headland, formerly a professor in the Pekin University and Edward Hume, D. D., for many years a missionary in China.

STATE BANKERS AID AGRICULTURAL WORK

Meeting Held at Madison to Increase Interest in Farm Problems on Part of Younger People.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 22.—With the object of uniting as far as possible all interests working in Wisconsin for the improvement of agricultural conditions and the re-organization of public school system of the state to provide more real preparation for life work of boys and girls in the rural communities, a conference of state bankers is being held here. The session opened this afternoon at Agricultural hall, University of Wisconsin. It was arranged by the committee on agricultural development and education of the Wisconsin Bankers' association.

L. A. Baker of New Richmond, chairman of the committee, presided at the following addresses were scheduled: Dr. E. C. Elliott, professor of education, University of Wisconsin; "A Broader Plan of Public Education," Dean H. L. Russell, Wisconsin college of agriculture, "Approved Plans for Dissemination of Agricultural Information," C. P. Cary, state superintendent, "Legislation Providing for Instruction in Agricultural and Vocational Subjects in Public Schools," Bert Ball, Chicago, secretary of crop improvement committee, Council Grain Exchange; Robert A. Campbell, secretary Wisconsin state board of public affairs; M. S. Dudgeon, secretary of Wisconsin Library commission, "Traveling Libraries for Rural Communities," John S. Donald, president of Wisconsin Country Life Commission, "What Else for Improvement of Country Life?" and A. D. Campbell, manager of Wisconsin Advancement association, "Undeveloped Wisconsin."

The committee headed by Mr. Baker consists also of Mr. Earle S. Pease of Grand Rapids, J. R. Wheeler of Columbus and President E. A. Dow, Plymouth, and Secretary George D. Bartlett, Milwaukee, of the state association. One of the unique methods by which the bankers are enlisting farmers in crop improvement movements is grain contests, sixteen or seventeen of which are now in progress. The exhibits of the prize winners will be on display in Madison, and from this competition a grand prize winner will be selected.

GRANDDAUGHTER OF SENATOR CULLOM BECOMES A BRIDE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22.—A new grandson, or more correctly speaking, a "grandson-in-law," was the rather unique present received today by the venerable Senator Shelby M. Cullom of Illinois on the occasion of his eighty-third birthday anniversary. The addition to Senator Cullom's family was brought about by the wedding of his granddaughter, Miss Eleanor Cullom Ridgely, daughter of William Barret Ridgely, former comptroller of the currency, and Dr. Henry P. Parker of this city. The date of the wedding was selected by the bride because it was her grandfather's birthday. The ceremony was performed at noon at Senator Cullom's home on Highland Terrace. The bride had her little niece, Eleanor Ridgely Brown, as her only attendant, and Dr. Parker had his brother, John Donaldson Parker, as best man.

SHIPPERS OF NORTHWEST FILE RATE COMPLAINTS.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 22.—Special Examiner Settle of the Interstate Commerce Commission came to Minneapolis today to begin a series of important hearings on complaints affecting Northwestern shippers. Included among the matters to come up are the proposed advances in rates for transportation of fuel wood, sawdust and shavings from Wisconsin and Michigan to Illinois points, and the proposed advances in rates on lineal oil from Minneapolis and St. Paul to Chicago, Kansas City and other points.

TURKEY IS DEFIANT; ALLIES TO RETRACT

BALKAN NATIONS WILL DOUBTLESS MODIFY DEMANDS RATHER THAN CONTINUE USELESS STRUGGLE.

PEACE STILL POSSIBLE

Turks Realize that Even if Tchataldja Is Captured it Must Later be Evacuated on Order of Powers.

London, Nov. 22.—"Come and take them!" the defiant reply of the Turks to the demand made by the allied Balkan nations for the evacuation of the line of fortifications at Tchataldja in front of Constantinople is not believed in diplomatic circles necessarily to mean the end of the negotiations for an armistice even though fighting has been resumed. From Sofia comes word today that the victorious invaders are likely to modify their conditions.

Nothing to Gain. Compared with its earlier disastrous experiences, the Turkish army evidently now considers itself in a favorable position. In view of the fact that the Ottoman capital even if captured must ultimately be evacuated in accordance with the decrees of the great powers, it appears that the allies have nothing to gain by insisting on the surrender of the lines which form virtually the gate of the city.

To Withdraw Demand. Hence the hope expressed by diplomats that this demand will be withdrawn. In which case it is thought that Turkey would quickly conclude that it has nothing to gain by continuing the conflict.

The first classes of the reserves of six Austro-Hungarian army corps have been called to the colors according to a news agency dispatch from Vienna. Three of these army corps are stationed in the north and three in the southeast of the Austro-Hungarian empire.

Notify Bulgarians. Constantinople, Nov. 22.—The rejection by Turkey of the conditions offered for an armistice between the opposing armies has been communicated to the Bulgarian government. One of their causes for their rejection was the opinion held by official circles in Constantinople that the conditions proposed by the allies deprived the Turks of the possibility of resuming hostilities in the event of the plenipotentiaries failing to settle the terms. This from the Turkish point of view meant no armistice at all.

Would Bind Turks. Such conditions it is held here, are only made when it is a question of the preliminaries of peace and by accepting such terms as those presented by the allies, Turkey would be binding herself hand and foot. It is further insisted that Turkey has not sunk to that degree of impotency which would compel her to accept such conditions.

Capital Not Mentioned. The terms stipulated by the Balkan states provided for the surrender of Adrianople with its garrison for the evacuation of the Tchataldja lines of Constantinople and for the surrender of Scutari, Durazzo and Dibra. No mention is made of Constantinople or the Dardanelles.

The Turkish cruiser Hamidieh arrived here this morning in tow. The war ship was towed by the stern where she apparently had been struck by a torpedo. She was at once docked.

To Modify Conditions. Sofia, Nov. 22.—The indications are today that Bulgaria will adopt a conciliatory attitude and will modify the conditions originally offered to the Turkish government. A special meeting of the Bulgarian cabinet was held today to consider the rejection by Turkey of the terms of the proposed armistice. In its conclusion it was declared in well informed circles that an immediate resumption of hostilities was improbable.

HIT IN EYE BY ARROW WHILE PLAYING INDIAN.

Appleton, Nov. 22.—While playing "old fashioned Indian" in the school yard at Manawa, Kermit Hart, aged 9, was shot in the eye with an arrow. The arrow pierced the eye ball and the lad was brought here in an effort to save his sight.

REFUSE APPROPRIATION FOR INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.

Appleton, Wis., Nov. 22.—The city council has refused to make an appropriation of $4,000 to establish an industrial or continuation school on account of the expense in maintaining the high school.

TO AVOID BIG CROWDS YOU MUST

"DO YOUR CHRISTMAS SHOPPING NOW!"

Many have begun their shopping, many are finishing it, but many, many, others through force of circumstances cannot do it until just before Christmas. And you to whom a crowd is so annoying must get at it now lest you go through the harrowing experiences of other years. Decide now—then shop!

AMERICAN CONGRESS OF MINING TO MEET

Fifteenth Annual Session to Open in Spokane Next Week—Will be Notable Gathering.

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 22.—Secretary Colbroth and other officers of the American Mining Congress have arrived to complete arrangements for the fifteenth annual session of that body to be held in this city during the first half of next week. The important subjects scheduled for consideration and the prominence of many of the men who will participate combine to give promise of the most notable gathering of its kind ever held in this country.

The congress is a practical organization, devoting itself to economic, administrative and commercial matters, or what might be termed mining politics, rather than to the technical phases of mining. Its annual conventions are held for the purpose of keeping in closer touch with the needs of the mining industry. They provide an open forum for full discussion of the more important subjects through which all persons who have plans for the betterment of mining conditions can be heard. The location of permanent headquarters of the congress is one of the leading matters to be discussed and voted upon at the coming meeting. Inasmuch as the principal activities of the national body have to do with federal legislation, it is the opinion of many of the members that it would be wise to locate the permanent home of the mining congress in the City of Washington, leaving to the various State chapters the responsibility of looking after state legislation.

Others incline to the view that in Denver or some other city in the West the permanent headquarters should be established. It is proposed to erect a permanent home for the congress, containing a complete mineral exhibit, a complete mining library and other features to make readily available all information about the mines of the country.

ROAD COMMISSIONER GETS $600 A YEAR

Manitowish County Board Fails to Increase Salary, But 17 Men Seek The Position.

Manitowish, Wis., Nov. 22.—Manitowish county will spend $20,000 on highway improvement next year, will pay a salary of $600 to a highway commissioner, the board yesterday refusing to increase this amount when it elected William Schnocks of Two Rivers to the position. There were 17 candidates out for the position which caused the merriest night of the session.

The board voted to take interest money on county funds from the county treasurers and allowed $35 per month for clerk hire. Reports are current that action will be instituted against several former county treasurers for collection of interest money on county funds which the treasurers are said to have retained.

It is said the county can go back no more than six years for its collection. In Outagamie County, Appleton, Nov. 22.—After an inspection of the permanent highways constructed in this county this year through state aid, the county board by a vote of 39 to 1 voted to expend $25,088.99 for the permanent improvements of highways in 1913.

ELECTION OFFICERS FACING INDICTMENT

Stuffed Ballot Boxes on Amendment Questions Leads to Investigation in Louisiana.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 22.—Discovery of the alleged miscounting of votes on the constitutional amendment permitting women to hold office in Louisiana has resulted in a general investigation by the Orleans Parish grand jury. As a sequel to examination of three ballot boxes 17 election officials have been indicted. The box in one river front precinct upon being counted showed 33 for and 64 against the amendment, nearly half of the voters not marking their ballots. The tally sheets for this precinct showed six votes for and 175 against the amendment. It is said 19 others proposed amendments received like treatment. All documents and ballot boxes have been ordered sealed, pending completion of the jury investigation.

Y. M. C. A. OF INDIANA IN ANNUAL CONVENTION.

Hammond, Ind., Nov. 22.—Y. M. C. A. leaders and other religious workers from every part of Indiana rallied here today for the state convention of the organization. It is the forty-fourth annual convention of the Indiana branches of the Y. M. C. A. and in point of attendance and enthusiasm it already bids fair to eclipse all previous gatherings of its kind. The program covers three days and provides for conferences of city, college and railway workers, business men, meetings, factory rallies and special church services. Bishop White of Michigan City, Dr. Edward A. Steiner of Iowa College, President Harrison of the Monon Railroad and Rev. Clarence A. Barbour, secretary of the international committee, are among the scheduled speakers.

PHYSICIANS CALLED IN GIBSON'S TRIAL

Medical Experts on Stand Today for Defense—Attorney Himself May Not be Placed on Stand.

Goshen, N. Y., Nov. 22.—Medical experts for the defense were the only witnesses with the possible exception of the defendant himself and his wife, who were to take the stand today in Berton W. Gibson's trial on a charge of murdering his client, Mrs. Rosa Menschik Sabo on Greenwood Lake, July 16 last. Thomas Garrison, a fisherman who found the body, paved the way for the expert testimony that the organs of her throat could have been forced out of position by handling the body before it was embalmed. Garrison testified yesterday that he twisted the neck and forced the chin downward to the breast. Gibson's counsel have advised that they do not think it necessary for him to testify. They expect to complete their case this afternoon after which it was thought Justice Thompson would adjourn court until Monday when counsel will sum up.

WATTERSON WILL ADDRESS COLLEGE PRESS ASSOCIATION.

Hanover, Ind., Nov. 22.—The annual conference of the Indiana Inter-collegiate Press Association began at Hanover College today with members in attendance from the leading colleges of the state. The meeting will continue over tomorrow and will conclude

JOHN SCHRANK.

CHICAGO JEWELRY STORE ROBBED THE FOURTH TIME.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Burglars buried a horseshoe wrapped in newspaper through a window of Berg & Company jewelers on Michigan Boulevard early today and escaped with jewelry valued at $2,500. It is the fourth time the establishment had been robbed in a similar manner.

SOLICITS FUNDS FOR BALKAN RELIEF

Madame Slave Grouitch.

Madame Slave Grouitch, wife of the Serbian minister to London, is in America raising money for the Serbian Red Cross to be used in the work connected with the Balkan war. She is actively associated with Miss Mabel Boardman of the American Red Cross Society. Madame Grouitch is an American woman and before her marriage was Miss Mabel Gordon Dunlop, of Harrison county, West Virginia.

TO COMMIT SCHRANK TO STATE HOSPITAL

ATTEMPTED ASSASSIN OF COLONEL ROOSEVELT WILL BE TAKEN TO NORTHERN ASYLUM.

REPORTED AS INSANE

Five Alienists Agree as to Unsound Mental Condition Which May Be Incurable According to Dr. Dewey.

Milwaukee, Nov. 22.—At 2:53 this afternoon Judge Backus ordered the commitment of John Schrank, who attempted to assassinate Col. Roosevelt, to the Northern Hospital for the Insane, adjudging him insane.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 22.—John Schrank, the would-be assassin of Col. Roosevelt, will probably be committed to the Northern Hospital for the Insane by Municipal Judge A. C. Backus late this afternoon in conformity with the report of the commission of five alienists which today reported to the court unanimously that the defendant is now insane.

The reading of the report of the alienists occupied nearly two hours following which Attorney James J. Flanders appointed by the court for the defendant as counsel, was asked if he had any questions to ask. After a whispered conversation with the defendant Mr. Flanders stated he had no request to make.

The five alienists were then taken in hand one by one by District Attorney W. C. Zabel and asked a series of technical questions to which all responded to the effect that Schrank was afflicted with a disease called chronic paranoia and that he was addicted to homicidal tendencies and should be committed to an institution where diseases of this nature are treated.

Dr. Dewey would not say that the disease was incurable in Schrank's case, but said that it was doubtful if cure could be effected.

The court recessed at noon. When court convenes this afternoon District Attorney Zabel expected to call a number of witnesses to give prima facie evidence pertaining to the commission of the crime, following which it was expected the court would order the prisoner committed to an asylum until cured of insanity.

Conclusions Reached.

The commission of alienists investigating the mental condition of John Schrank today reported unanimously that he is insane. The conclusion reached by the commission are as follows:

First: John Schrank is suffering from insane delusions, grandiose in character, and of a systematized variety. Second: In our opinion he is insane at the present time. Third: On account of the connection existing between his delusions and the act with which he stands charged, we are of the opinion he is unable to confer intelligently with counsel and the conduct of his defense. Signed: Richard Dewey, M. D., chairman, W. M. Becker, M. D., W. W. Herrington, M. D., Frank Stridley, M. D., William F. Wegge, M. D., commissioners.

Schrank was conducted from the county jail to the city hall by a strong guard but without being handcuffed. Arriving at the municipal court on the fourth floor, Schrank took a position at one of the tables inside of the railing seated by his counsel, James G. Flanders, who was appointed by the court to represent him.

Listeners to Report. The prisoner was pale, although he appeared not to be excited. He rested his right and left elbows alternately on the arms of the chair with either hand resting on his jaw. The prisoner listened very intently to the report of the commissioners which was read by the chairman, Dr. Richard Dewey. The commission's report consists of several thousand words and starts out with setting forth the personal and family history of the defendant. Other portions of the report bear upon the present physical state of the prisoner, neurological data, and winds up with many exhibits consisting of numerous written communications of the defendant.

WE expect another great day in our shoe section Saturday—the section is growing more and more popular daily. Value is the reason—value backed by style and reinforced by service. The prices are $2.50 to $5 with especially attractive displays at $3, $3.50 and $4.00.

AUTOMOBILES BURNED AND STABLE DAMAGED

One of Two Automobiles Owned by J. H. Burns Destroyed and Other Seriously Damaged.

Fire originating from an electric spark this morning completely destroyed a one-cylinder Cadillac runabout belonging to J. H. Burns, damaged a Carter car roadster, also his property, to the extent of several hundred dollars and did about $200 damage to the barn of George H. Fox, 324 Milton avenue. The spark is believed to have ignited escaping gasoline, as the car was enclosed in a mass of flames in a minutes time. An alarm was sent in from box 25 at about 9:30 o'clock. Chief Kline's car was the first apparatus to arrive, and the first action of the firemen was to draw the burning machine out of the barn and direct upon it a stream from the chemical fire extinguisher. In the meantime the fire had obtained a good start in the barn and in the other machine. A line of hose was run from the nearest hydrant. First one stream was played on the flames and but later divided into two smaller ones so as to be used to better effect. Nearly an hour's work was required to extinguish the blaze. The loss on the Cadillac runabout is estimated at $150, and is not covered by insurance. The Carter-car roadster and the barn were insured.

FOUND PLANK TAKEN FROM BRIDGE FLOOR

District Foreman McCune Discovered Trick Before Any Accident Occurred—Plot Suspected.

Attempt on the part of some person to wreak revenge on the city for some fancied wrong is suspected as the result of the discovery by District Foreman McCune on Wednesday evening that a plank had been removed from the floor of the Monterey bridge. The plank, which was taken out near the north end, was about ten feet long and a foot wide, and its removal left an opening which would have broken the leg or seriously injured any horse that stepped into it. In consequence the city would have been liable to the defendant in an expensive damage suit. Happily Mr. McCune discovered the plank was gone before any accident occurred.

A crow bar, pickaxe, or other powerful tool must have been used to pry out the plank, as the spikes were left in the stringers, having been drawn through. The plank was found concealed under the side-walk. The police are making an investigation and it will go hard with the culprit if apprehended, as the offense is a most serious one.

Investigates Fire. G. H. Kiland, Chief Assistant of State Fire Marshal Purcell was in the city today investigating the incendiary attempt to set fire to the Welch tobacco warehouse last Friday night.

GRASS FIRE ENDANGERS PROPERTY AT MONTEREY.

Department Summoned There Shortly Before One O'clock This Afternoon—Women Combat Flames.

On arriving at Monterey early this afternoon in response to an alarm sent in from box 65 at the corner of Armour and Eastern avenues, the fire department found the women of the neighborhood vigorously fighting a grass fire with brooms and pails of water. The fire had approached the houses in the German settlement so closely that they were in considerable danger. The fire was practically out and under control by the time the firemen arrived on the scene, and the chief is of the opinion that the Monterey women would make an excellent auxiliary fire fighting force.

FRIDAY.

BY C. A. VOIGHT.

A sport writer through the pages of the St. Louis Times sings the praises of George Baumgartner, hurler for the St. Louis Browns. "Working for a club that finished in seventh place, and that by none too great a margin—Baum won eleven and lost thirteen games, which is a fair record when it is taken into consideration that his club won only 53 and lost 101 contests," says this writer. "George's percentage of victories for the season was .458 while that of the Browns was .344. He eclipsed the mark of his team by 114 points."

"With one year of experience in the majors Baumgartner should be one of the Browns' mainstays on the firing line in 1913. His experience is sure to help, and if he is not a wonder in the majors next season many able baseball authorities will lose their guess."

Captain Larry Doyle led the New York Giants in driving in runs during the season of 1912. He was responsible for 87 of the runs made by the Giants, that being the number of rallies to which he put the finishing touches, either through the medium of safe hits, sacrifice flies or infield outs. He found the St. Louis and Boston pitchers the easiest, and the Chicago pitchers the hardest, to hit throughout the season.

"Jerry" McCarthy, the youthful

URGES GOLF FOR THE YOUTHS OF COUNTRY

Chick Evans Writing For the Chicago Examiner Gives Excellent Advice About Golf.

Charles Evans, "Chick" Evans of golf fame, who recently played over the local course makes some excellent suggestions for young golfers in a recent article in the Chicago Examiner. Mr. Evans says:

"A few years ago when a group of young boys struggled up into the light of championships a great deal was said for and against the boy golfer. His advent was regarded either as the most encouraging promise for the future of golf in America, or as a steady menace to the game. The arguments brought forward on both sides were interesting. We were told that it was only by beginning young that we could hope to train great golfers. 'They destroy the social life of the club,' said the opponents of the boy golfer; 'a club is not a nursery, it is for mature men.' There were two sides to the question. The youth, as a rule, does learn the game quicker than his father, but Travis learned it in mature life, and there is a chance that boys might overrun a clubhouse to the detriment of their elders. So the young boys listened as humbly as possible, and were convinced that this was strictly an American question. Only the American boy was ill-bred, so evident, so insistent. This was an error, however."

"A British paper lies before me containing a list of the achievements of the youthful golf prodigy in Britain. It is illuminating."

"Almost without exception the professionals were juvenile wonders. It is related that Braid took part in his first competition when eight years old and Ray and Varon and Taylor were doing remarkable things at sixteen; but the amateurs apparently did not stray behind in youthful golfing."

"John Ball is reported to have said that 'he played the best golf of his life when fourteen years old.' At that tender age he took part in the open championship at Prestwick and finished sixth, eight strokes behind the winner, 'Jamie' Anderson. His score was 165, rather wonderful in the old gutta-percha ball days. This happened thirty-five years ago in Scotland, not in 1900 in America."

"At ten years of age Harold H. Hilton won the medal in a contest at Hoylake for boys sixteen or under. John Graham, Jr., played at Hoylake in his first tournament when six years old. He played five holes with an average of slightly over fifteen strokes a hole. When he was eleven he won the boy's medal on the full course."

"We are also told that a short time ago Master John Fraser, age ten, played the fifth hole at West Kilbride, Ayrshire, a distance of 162 yards, in two and the thirteenth hole of 110 yards in one."

"I do not dare to test public credulity or mine farther. I can only ask: Where are our young American golfers?"

WHY AN EXTRA SESSION?
There is always reason for caution when the loudest public opinion is all one way. There should have been real tariff revision two years ago when the Payne-Aldrich measure successfully perpetuated a number of time-honored extortions. If the democratic majority in congress is to take up tariff revision in a special session, it will have to be much surer of its ground than it is now. A tariff of compromise would be exactly the thing to cause a popular revulsion to the old republican party.
"Allowing that all parties stand committed more or less to some sort of tariff revision, Mr. Wilson is still a minority president, even so far as that question is concerned. He cannot get that kind of revision which in principle would represent tariff for revenue only, and in practice heavy duties on imports, unless he has something more than a bare majority in the United States senate. The senate is not all elected yet; and some of its members will not be elected before the regular session of congress in December, 1913.
"It used to be said that Mr. Wilson was a free trader; but he showed a conciliatory attitude in that respect throughout his campaign, which it is only fair to call statesmanlike. But as a student of economics, he must know that most men are at heart protectionists, for the reason that each desires to have his own little industry protected, preferably at the expense of all the others. If one is a senator from Montana, and a democrat, he still wants the duty on wool maintained, but is willing to sacrifice the duty on coal and iron, which the democratic senator from Alabama doubtless considers the one indispensable schedule in the tariff. It was Arthur Ward who said that the Civil war would have to be fought to the bitter end, if he had to sacrifice all his wife's relations.
"Naturally, the senators from Alabama and the senator from Montana make private concessions to each other. And in both Houses, and most particularly in the joint committee of the two Houses, everybody has his little exception to the general sealing down of the tariff. To secure that exception, and of course the good will of his own district or state, he is willing to dicker. The result is a tariff based upon no definite principle, in which the interest with the most dexterous representatives in congress secures the largest share of the spoils.
"To overcome such collusion and such dickerings, an overwhelming majority is necessary both in the senate and in the combined houses of congress. In the former at least, Governor Wilson can hardly hope for any such majority, even at the regular session of congress; still a year away. From a purely democratic point of view, it seems fair to ask: Is the extra session wise?"
This exposition of the tariff, from a financial journal, is a fair statement of the situation which President-elect Wilson will face, when he assumes the office of chief executive. The more the tariff is studied, the more it becomes a local issue, and the more it is tinkered with, the more pronounced the local issue becomes.

The popular vote for Governor Wilson is a minority endorsement for free trade or for "revenue only," and this fact should influence him to go slow in advocating radical measures.
THE LITTLEST REBEL.
There are theatres and theatres. Some are bad, many are good, and a few stand out by themselves as great teachers because they combine with entertainment, a graphic lesson which inspires both mind and heart.
Standing close to the front, among this class of plays, is the production known as "The Littlest Rebel," which appeared at the opera house last Wednesday night.
The story—so vividly portrayed that it brought tears to the eyes of the old men who helped to make history, back in the years of civil strife—has to do with the closing months of the war, when gallant men fought hand to hand, at close range, in the final struggle.
"Virgie," "the littlest rebel," a child of ten, is the daughter of Captain Herbert Cary, confederate scout. His home, not far from Richmond, is the scene of the tragedy, and from the first curtain call until the close of the last act, the play is of absorbing interest.
The home, which was despoiled, and finally burned, was typical of many homes which shared the same fate, and the loyalty of its stricken inmates, to the lost cause, combined with the gallantry of the northern officers, are the striking features of the play.
The history of the Civil war is only history, to the present generation, and to the boys and girls who are approaching the threshold of the next cycle, it lacks significance, because so far removed from the scene of action.
"The Littlest Rebel" is more than a play. It is an educator, because it portrays the great conflict which cost the nation so much in blood and sacrifice. It is a clean and wholesome play, free from any taint of objection, and it should be seen by the young people in every city where it appears. The company is well balanced and one of the best on the road.

While the steel market is sold ahead for six months, with every mill running to the limit, many other lines of industry show a disposition to go slow, and wait for tariff developments. This is especially true of the cotton and woolen industry. The railroads of the country have been playing a waiting game for the past three or four years, on account of stringent laws and too much regulation. As a result their equipment has been neglected, and they are now forced into the market. This makes an unusual demand for steel, and railway supplies, but does not mean very much, so far as other lines are concerned. The democratic party has never been a large inspirer of confidence.
In the current number of the Outlook is a condensed history of Turkey, and the nations now engaged in war, from the pen of Theodore Roosevelt. It is concise and well worth reading. The compliment paid to Bulgaria is a fitting tribute to a little nation which has developed great strength of character under the most dire oppression. Every Bulgarian is a soldier, inspired not only by love of country, but by hatred of oppression, worse than slavery, and a determination to be avenged. In the final adjustment, the little nation is entitled to every consideration.
The playground movement is again brought to the surface by the brotherhood of the Congregational church, and efforts will be made to interest every brotherhood in the city. This is a move in the right direction, and entitled to every encouragement. Pub.

lie playgrounds are a safeguard to child life. They keep them off the street and furnish wholesome recreation at the restful age. "The parks of the city could not be returned to better purpose, and there should be no opposition to an intelligent plan for utilizing them.
The murder trial, now on at the court house, excites the same maudlin curiosity that always features this class of trials, and the more disgusting details, the more eager the crowd to absorb them. Many people sit through a trial of this kind, who would be shocked at a playhouse, and yet the cheapest play on the road is less demoralizing. There are some things in human nature which are difficult to account for, and the interest in the sickening details of a murder trial, is one of them.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT
BY ROY K. MOULTON.
New York.
New York may not be the largest city in the world, but it is certainly one of the tallest. It is about twice as tall as Detroit and it spreads out over quite a bit of territory, reaching to within ten miles of the city limits in all directions. The population consists of about 4,000,000 souls and 1,275 theatrical managers. From the Metropolitan tower one can overlook the entire city and one has to overlook quite a good deal in New York, too.
Broadway is a very nice street, so called because of the broad stories and conversation that a person hears as he passes to and fro. It is populated almost exclusively by actors and bartenders.
New York's business streets are well paved with brick asphalt, granite and good intentions, and there are some very nice stores where nearly anything that a person needs can be purchased. New York also has a daily newspaper and perhaps more than one. The 5 o'clock afternoon editions were late the other day. They didn't get on the street until nearly 11:30 a. m.
New York also has a postoffice and nearly all trains stop at N. Y. There are several good churches, attended exclusively by visitors in the city. There is a good hack line and a person can get a taxicab any minute of the day or night anywhere he wants it—in the neck, in the middle of the back or between the cafe and the grill.
I am stopping at the St. Regis hotel. I stopped there three times yesterday. It is a very nice hotel and it looks perfectly respectable—a hotel in fact where a man would feel entirely safe in taking his wife and children. Mrs. St. Regis is a very good cook and they have jelly roll on the table every Sunday. I haven't met St. Regis yet. They have clean napkins and table cloths once a week and individual towels in the washroom. It is strictly up-to-date, having all modern conveniences, including hot and cold water, electric light and a bathtub.
I have been collecting impressions of the New York styles and find that celluloid collars are not very popular here. Almost nobody wears them but the millionaires and the visitors from Janesville and Beloit. Blue fur hats also seem to be unpopular, and I haven't seen a pair of earmuffs or wristlets. Articles and yarn mittens are not much worn on Broadway or Fifth avenue.
There are one or two good theaters here and there is some sort of a show almost every night. I asked a policeman at the corner of Broadway and Forty-second street about the population of this town and he said the population was equally divided between those who were writing musical comedies and those who were thinking of writing them.
Diner—Say, gal, where is my chicken?

From the Hickeyville Clarion.
T. Egbert Peavey, the Beau Brummel of our midst, has accepted a lucrative position as night clerk in a hotel down to the city and it must be a warm place to work, as he says he has to be right over the register all the time, and his mother is afraid he will catch cold when he goes out. T. Egbert has to keep track of what time the 9:17 train leaves every day and also the best places in the town where visitors kin buy picture post cards. Egbert says a well-known actress spoke to him the other evening. She said: "Why in thunder didn't you send that ice water up to my room, you red-headed, little galoot, you?" Egbert expects to get acquainted in the theatrical profession quite rapid.
Elmer Jones says travelin' around the country selling wingers is a great way to learn things. He has already learned that every family has got one. J. Tibbs, who plays the base drum in the silver cornet band, has caught a dreadful cold which may develop into la grippe. The bung-hole in the base drum is right under his face when he has the drum strapped on and every time he hits her a smash with the drumstick the wind shoots out the vent and hits him like a tornado. When he plays fast music it is just like standing in a sididy draft. He is going to hook the drum on different—after this, so the wind will hit the feller that is marchin' ahead of him.
Constable Ezzy Hand is on a still hunt and he will prob'ly find the still if there is one around anywhere. Since some cupriet stole Uncle Ezra Harkins' grindstone he has been usin' a round sponge cake his niece sent him from cookin' school instead.

Child's Pitiful Attempt to Die.
A remarkable attempt at suicide was made by a boy of eleven in a hop garden, recently near Sandwich, England. He had been chastised for his slackness in picking hops, and thereupon he went to a secluded spot and attempted to hang himself with a piece of yarn used for tying hops. Fortunately the lad was discovered in time, and was cut down, and revived.
Enough of Giants.
Little Frank had had a parental meeting with his six-foot-two papa about filling the tooth-powder bottle with water. After the meeting adjourned, he went in and asked his mother to promise him one thing. Without knowing the nature of the request she promised, and then asked him what it was. He told her: "Mamma, when papa dies, I want you to promise me not to bring any more giant men to this house to live with us!"—Lippincott's.
Always on the Job.
The solar geese are so fond of collecting materials for their nests that they do not desist from the habit even when they are about to abandon their nests for the winter migration. Off the coast of Scotland one day patches of straw bedding were seen floating, and although the birds were on the eve of departure they gathered up every wisp as though they had their nests to build, and in the same place they were seen collecting seaweed every day.
Making Sure of the Present.
Mgr. Donner, archbishop of Bordeaux, was taken to task for his friendly intercourse with the Protestant minister in that city. The very tolerant prince of the church replied: "Pray allow me to have the pleasure of seeing him in this world, as I am not so sure of meeting him in the next."

DR. PRICE'S CREAM Baking Powder
Purity in food, lower cost of living—these are the demands of the day.
Pure food is health, and health is economy itself. We cannot have health without healthful food.
The most healthful foods are the quickly raised flour foods—biscuit, cake, muffins, crusts and other pastry, when perfectly made from wholesome ingredients.
Dr. PRICE'S baking powder makes these foods in specially attractive, appetizing and wholesome form, and for both economic and hygienic reasons, such food should be more largely substituted for meat in the daily diet.
But bear in mind that alum, or unwholesome baking powder, can never make pure, wholesome food.

Enough of Giants.
Little Frank had had a parental meeting with his six-foot-two papa about filling the tooth-powder bottle with water. After the meeting adjourned, he went in and asked his mother to promise him one thing. Without knowing the nature of the request she promised, and then asked him what it was. He told her: "Mamma, when papa dies, I want you to promise me not to bring any more giant men to this house to live with us!"—Lippincott's.
Always on the Job.
The solar geese are so fond of collecting materials for their nests that they do not desist from the habit even when they are about to abandon their nests for the winter migration. Off the coast of Scotland one day patches of straw bedding were seen floating, and although the birds were on the eve of departure they gathered up every wisp as though they had their nests to build, and in the same place they were seen collecting seaweed every day.
Making Sure of the Present.
Mgr. Donner, archbishop of Bordeaux, was taken to task for his friendly intercourse with the Protestant minister in that city. The very tolerant prince of the church replied: "Pray allow me to have the pleasure of seeing him in this world, as I am not so sure of meeting him in the next."

Miss Agnes C. Anderson Will Have Regular Office Hours After Mapping Out Work.

Miss Agnes C. Anderson, appointed to the position of City Visiting Nurse by the Council at its last meeting, has been granted the use of the former Council committee room on the third floor of the city hall as an office. She will announce office hours after mapping out her work. She has already assumed the duties of her position and is attempting to get into touch with the cases of tuberculosis in the city.

To Organize Team: Reorganization of the Lakota basketball team will take place soon and regular practice started. The line-up will be much changed from last year, but will be of unusual strength. Some spirited games will be arranged for.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT EVENING SCHOOL

Two Hundred Forty-Six Students for Organization of Classes Last Evening.

Two hundred and forty-six students out of 275 enrolled were present for the organization of classes in the evening school division of the local industrial school. The work is now successfully started in eight different courses and a class in millinery will be started in four more students can be secured. The classes now organized are as follows:

Dressmaking and sewing with 55 students under the direction of Miss Georgia Glidden, Miss Smiley, Miss Mable Cornish, and Miss True Hyland.

In salesmanship there are 50 students under the direction of Prof. Paul Neystrom of the University of Wisconsin extension department.

In bookkeeping there is a class of 21 with D. J. Jorgensen of the high school faculty as teacher.

In shorthand there are 30 students with Prof. G. W. Curtis as instructor.

Reading in English for foreigners in which there is a class of 20 will be in charge of Miss Maude Munroe.

In mechanical drawing there is a class of 12 under Mr. Coplan of the high school manual training department.

Twelve students are taking up cooking under Mrs. Coplan who had a four year course in the Michigan agricultural college. Only eight more can be accommodated in this class.

In the electrical and gas engine class there are 18. Prof. John Arbutnot of the high school faculty will give instructions in electricity, and a shop expert will be secured for the instruction in gas engines.

SHORT COURSE STUDENTS SUCCESSFUL ON FARMS

On November 12, 142 new students had registered for the short course of the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin, or seventeen more than on the same date last year. Final registration does not close until November 30, by which time it is expected that 450 students will be enrolled. This will include the second year men who have returned to complete their course.

Every year the employment office of the College of Agriculture receives about 200 requests for men to work at salaries ranging from $25 to $100 per month, but not one half of these positions can be filled. Not only is the graduating class too small, but many of the students realize that there is a larger field with a greater financial income in returning to their home farms.

The president of the American Guernsey Cattle club, the president of the Wisconsin Livestock association, and prominent farmers and breeders of the state, received their training in the short course. At the present time men from all over the world are in attendance. The following are from Rock county: R. R. Tower, Beloit; H. Brunnquell, Beloit;

C. F. Donner, Janesville; A. Godfrey, Milton Junction; F. A. Collings, Beloit; J. H. Lentell, Beloit; P. B. Taylor, Milton; E. H. Morse, Edgerton.

Seaweed in Commerce.

It is always known that seaweed contained a large quantity of iodine, but today it is used in the manufacture of a certain kind of cloth, while certain species are eaten under the names of "dulse," "stoke" and "carrageen." Kelp is burned seaweed, and Devonshire seaweed is used for a large number of purposes; therefore, the seaweed gatherers of today are in a better position than ever before.

Nearly Good Idea.

A new patent that will interest men who would like to discard suspenders, but are not partial to tight belts, is a shirt with "a plurality of lapels" which are designed to be attached to the trousers for their support. The trousers being thus held up, suspenders may be dispensed with and belts worn comfortably loose.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Many Attend Rally: A large number attended the Home Mission Rally held at the Congregational church, last evening. Pastors of the Methodist, Presbyterian, Baptist and Congregational churches took part, it being a union meeting of the members and pastors of those churches. The quartet of the Congregational church sang several selections.

Special Features: Among the special features in the vaudeville attractions at the Moose Band carnival in the auditorium tonight are "Conicour," the man with iron teeth who screws horseshoes in a vise and breaks them with his teeth, and an aero balancing act. There will be five acts in all.

FINDS DISORDERLY WOMEN HAVE FORSAKEN HAUNTS.

Chief of Police Appleby Gratified at Results of Inspection Made Yesterday. On making a tour of inspection yesterday Chief of Police George Appleby found that the women of disreputable character, notified to leave the city by November 15, had forsaken their usual haunts and as far as is known had left the city. This extends even to those disorderly women who were the owners of property in the city. The police will keep a close surveillance in order that they may not return to the city.

Removal Piano Sale

Our Removal Piano Sale has been a winning success. Yesterday afternoon we sold three beautiful pianos, and all parties satisfied because of price and quality of the instruments; last week we sold a fine Newman Bros. piano to the trustees of the First Christian Church. This makes the tenth Newman Bros. piano that we have sold to churches and public halls in Rock County.

This speaks well for the Newman Bros. Piano sure.

Our Removal Piano Sale has been a success because our pianos and prices met the approval of our customers.

Remember Our Sale Closes On Nov. 27th and That is the Day We Plan to Move to 313 W. Milwaukee St., To Our New Location.

We have some extra fine bargains to offer you in Pianos and Player Pianos in the last four days of our sale. Come and see our pianos whether you buy or not. Come and see what a grand bargain we can give you in the famous Bjur Bros. Player Piano. Come one, come all, and let us finish up this sale with every piano sold.

Do not forget our special Scholarship of Music in the Northwestern School of Music of Milwaukee. We give one of these Scholarships, good for two years, worth $80.00, to every customer that purchases their piano of us.

MARSHAL PURTELL ISSUES BULLETIN

In bulletin number 5, just issued by Fire Marshal T. M. Purcell, precautions are given for the prevention of winter fires, the losses from which are said to be annually over a half a million dollars, besides the twenty-eight deaths and eighteen serious accidents to human beings which were directly due last year to the more common winter fires.

The bulletin offers the following suggestions, which, if carried out, will greatly aid in the work of cutting down Wisconsin's enormous fire losses:

Place a metal stove-board on the wood floor under the stove, and extending at least twelve inches in front of the ash-pit door. Protect all walls and partitions within two feet of any stove with a metal shield, leaving an air-space between the shield and the wall. Leave no kindling or other wood in the oven over night. Do not hang clothes too near the stove or stove-pipes.

See that the lengths of stove-pipe are well fitted together, free from rust holes and parted seams, wired firmly and fitted perfectly into the chimney. Stove-pipes passing through partitions, walls, floors, attics and roofs are dangerous at best. Where these must pass through partitions, walls or floors, always use a large, ventilated double thimble. You cannot observe the stove-pipes in the attic. They may come apart or rust. Flues and spider-webs are likely to gather on and around them to be set on fire when you least expect it.

Chimneys should be built from the ground up and never rest on wooden supports. The settling of the wood-work will cause cracks in the chimney. Nor should the chimney walls be used to support joists or other woodwork. Soft brick and poor mortar are often responsible for defects in the chimney. Use a good quality of brick and cement mortar up through the first floor and above the roof. Chimney walls should be at least eight inches thick, the flue of ample size and lined with fire clay or terra cotta. Never stuff up flue holes with rags or paper, nor cover them with cheese cloth, paper or anything but a metal stop.

Protect all woodwork above and around boilers, if within three feet, with a metal shield, also all wood-work near furnace pipes. It is best to rivet the lengths of pipe together to prevent disjoining. The pipe should fit perfectly into the chimney. Examine the pipe frequently for rust holes or other defects. Keep them free from dust, dirt and spider-webs, which are easily ignited.

Defective stoves, boilers, furnaces, pipes and chimneys should be promptly repaired or replaced.

Beware of overheating stoves, boilers, furnaces and pipes. Ashes should never be placed in wooden receptacles or bins, on wood floors, or against wood partitions, walls, fences, buildings or any other woodwork. Use metal receptacles only, and on the outside-dump ashes away from all buildings.

NEXT YEAR HE MAY OUTSHINE BRICKLEY

Eddie Mahan.

There is a freshman at Harvard this year whose kicking has become the talk of the east. His name is Eddie Mahan. He will be Charlie Brickley's halfback running mate next fall, and he is a brighter star than Brickley. In a recent game between the Harvard freshman and Worcester Academy he kicked a goal from placement standing on Worcester's 45-yard line. In the same game he punted seven times for 335 yards. One of the kicks was good for a gain of 75 yards.

WILL DECIDE TITLE SAYS RIPON COACH

"Izzy" Smith Declares High School Football Championship Lies Between Oshkosh And Janesville.

That the high school football championship of the state lies between Oshkosh and Janesville is the opinion of Coach "Izzy" Smith of Ripon. In last evening's Northwestern he has the following to say:

"Oshkosh has the best claim for the state high school title so far as I am able to judge. If Madison refuses to play Oshkosh, that school is out of it and Oshkosh will have the title by beating Janesville."

Coach Wilbur (Izzy) Smith, former Ripon star, who is now using every bit of his football wit to fit Ripon to beat Lawrence next Saturday, stole a few moments last evening to talk of the state high school title.

Learning of Madison's chicken-hearted refusal to play for the title, hiding behind the board of athletic control as an excuse, Coach Smith made this comment: "It seems to me Madison is in the same boat with the man entered with a running race if he fails to run he can't win it. If Madison fails to meet Oshkosh when there is such a fine chance to settle the title, the capital city is absolutely out of it."

"If Merrill backs up its claim to a forfeit from Eau Claire, that makes Oshkosh supreme in the north, east and west."

"If Oshkosh as northern champion offers to meet any undefeated team in the state for the state championship, any team which has a word to say must speak now or be considered out of it. It seems to me that Madison refusing to back up its claim by playing the game between Oshkosh and Janesville would decide the title."

The blues won two from the maroons in the contest last night. Scores are as follows:

BUYS FAST COLT FROM SPRING HILL STOCK FARM.

J. M. Huginin has just purchased, what horsemen think, promises to be one of the fastest colts ever brought into Wisconsin from the Spring Hill Stock Farm at Delhi, Indiana. He is a pure bred trotting yearling stallion and from the same strain as Six Cylinder Pen, which Mr. Huginin campaigned so successfully last season. This latter horse will be seen on the Grand Circuit this coming year under the management of Briggs who handled him so successfully this past year.

UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI IS FAVORITE OVER KANSAS.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Lawrence, Kas., Nov. 22.—With both teams reported in good condition interest throughout Kansas and Missouri centers on tomorrow's football game between the Kansas and Missouri Universities. The game is to be played here and the city is already filling with the followers of both teams. Nearly 15,000 tickets for the game have been sold. Betting slightly favors the Missourians, chiefly because of the splendid showing the Tigers have made this season.

UNIVERSITIES WILL BATTLE FOR CHAMPIONSHIP.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 22.—The crack football teams of Vanderbilt University and Alabama Polytechnic Institute have finished their final practice work and are awaiting the call to battle on the gridiron here tomorrow. Keen interest is displayed in the contest, as the result will virtually determine the Southern championship.

THINK LA FOLLETTE CONTROLS AFFAIRS

Politicians' State Senator Will Pocket McGovern and His Legislative Control.

"La Follette will win in a walk," was the way a politician put it when the expected fight over the speakership in the next legislature between Senator La Follette and Gov. McGovern was being discussed. This is the opinion of those who have no interest on either side.

That it will be a warm contest if the governor refuses to back down is an accepted fact among the politicians. That he will retreat, just as he did at the time of the platform convention, when, after a count of noses, the governor found that he had no show of electing his candidate for state chairman, is the opinion among those who have been watching conditions. The governor may withdraw from the fight, for the same reason that he gave in September, namely, that he will not be able to control enough votes to make a showing.

Of the assemblymen-elect on the republican side, it is estimated that the governor will not have, at an outside limit, more than fifteen out of the fifty-seven. There are eight or ten of the republican assemblymen-elect who are classed as conservatives of more or less pronounced opinions. A combination of these values with the McGovern men would avail nothing beyond hanging up the speakership for a longer or shorter time.

New Combination Possible.
Should a combine between the McGovern men, non-partisans and the democrats be attempted, as has been hinted, there is another angle to be considered, the probability that in such case the six socialist members would probably come to the assistance of the progressives.

No new candidates for speaker have developed in the last ten days though as had been hinted, there are now five candidates in the field: Ray J. Nye, Superior; Merlin Hull, Black River Falls; T. J. Mahon, Eland; L. E. Johnson, Sturgeon Bay; and C. E. Estabrook, Milwaukee.

As the matter stands Assemblyman Mahon is the McGovern candidate and L. E. Johnson is the candidate of the La Follette side. Few, however, take Mr. Johnson's candidacy seriously. He is looked upon as being brought out simply to furnish a rallying point around which the La Follette men can gather. Later, it is intimated, there will be a decision as to who will be the real La Follette candidate. In this connection it is the belief among some politicians that Merlin Hull, may eventually be taken up as a candidate against Mr. Hull that his agitation of the state university to remedy conditions alleged to exist there, would make it certain that the entire influence of the university, and that is not slight, would be thrown against him.

Attitude May Help.
On the other side, it is said, the farmers in the assembly are fully as strong, if not stronger, than in the past two legislatures and Mr. Hull's position regarding university matters might be a help rather than a hindrance.

In case Mr. Johnson should be elected speaker, it is urged against his candidacy that, in reality, Insurance Commissioner H. L. Ebbert would be speaker, Mr. Johnson merely filling the chair.

All the candidates are conducting a quiet but persistent campaign but have not been able to assure themselves just where they will stand because many of the members-elect refuse to commit themselves in advance.

PIONEER PROGRAM GIVEN BY SOCIETY

Philatilians Present Interesting Numbers at Opening Exercises At High School Today.

The Philatolian Literary Society had a very instructive and interesting program to present to the high school students at the regular exercises this morning. It was in the form of a pioneer affair, taking one back to the days when the Indians were ravaging the country. The state of Wisconsin was the center of the struggle, which was explained by various members of the society on the Black Hawk Indians. Their president, Vesta Bradley, outlined the program and then it was given in a most pleasing way. The following was the program as it was given in order:

Indian Poem ... Marion Fletcher
The Black Hawk Tragedy ... Helen Taylor
Capture of the Hull Girls ... Frances Hall
Black Hawk's Speech and Surrender at Prairie du Chien ... Grace McLaughlin
An Indian Lullaby ... Ten members

Stop That Cough In A Minute

Would you give morphine or chloroform to your baby or take it yourself? Of course not. Yet most patent cough cures contain one or both. They stop a cough in a minute, which is dangerous. A cough should be cured internally by healing the lungs, loosening the phlegm, throwing it out, which is done by coughing. Badger Cough Balsam does not contain morphine or chloroform. It is made by percolation from bloodroot, lobelia, pine bark, wild cherry, etc. It cures a cough in a few days without filling the lungs with poisonous phlegm. The irritation is relieved, the lungs healed without danger of pneumonia. It's safe for children or old people. Get a bottle today for 25 cents. Badger Cough Balsam is made by Mr. Pfennig, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist, Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee and River Sts.

Charles Kingsley was sentenced, to eight days in the county jail after pleading guilty to a charge of intoxication.

FOR A BAD STOMACH PAPE'S DIAEPSIN

Time It! In five minutes you will wonder what became of the Gas, Sourness and Indigestion.

Sour, gassy, upset stomach, indigestion, heartburn, dyspepsia, when the food you eat, ferments into gases and stubborn lumps; your head aches and you feel sick and miserable, that's when you realize the magic in Pape's Diaepsin. It makes such misery vanish in five minutes.

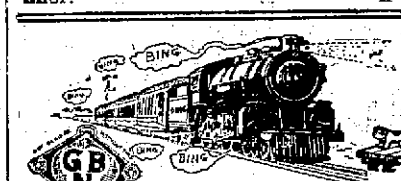

If your stomach is in a continuous revolt—if you can't get it regulated, please, for your sake, try Diaepsin. It's so needless to have a bad stomach—make your next meal a favorite food meal, then take a little Diaepsin. There will not be any distress—eat without fear. It's because Pape's Diaepsin "really does" regulate weak, out-of-order stomachs that gives it its millions of sales annually.

Get a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diaepsin from any drug store. It's the quickest, surest stomach relief and cure known. It acts almost like magic—it's a scientific, harmless and pleasant preparation which truly belongs in every home. Adv.

ORDINANCE BARRING WOMEN FROM SALOONS IS IN FORCE

Solomon Keepers and Bartenders Forbidden to Sell Them Liquor or Permit Loitering.
Amendments to Ordinance No. 355, known as sections 2A, 2B and 4A designed to prohibit the loitering of women in saloons, the sale of liquor to them and the employment of minor bartenders went into effect today, ten days having elapsed since their passage by the city council. The police have taken cognizance of this fact and will keep close watch for any violations of this ordinance. Those places which had stalls and wine-rooms will come in for especially keen scrutiny.

Thoughts on Education.
Educated people are often so stupid as to make one doubt whether the poor can gain all by education. But on the other hand, uneducated people are often so wise that we fear they have something to lose, even if they have nothing to gain, by being educated. In short, the modern methods of political reform, even when they have done well, have not done so obviously well that it is certain to be a benefit to extend them.

To Write a Letter.
The art of letter writing is quite simple if you will take it in all simplicity. All you have to do is to conjure up a vision of the person to whom you are writing, pick up your pen, and—talk. When you can picture a face you like, adorned with a pipe whose shape you know well, it is no difficult matter to find what to say and how to say it. A letter is a chat and the pen can be as effective as the tongue.

THE DEVIL OF THE NIGER.

The natives inhabiting the country near the source of the Niger believe that a devil lives in the rock whence the river springs. They are very superstitious and greatly fear this devil, who is supposed to kill any person who dares to look at the source. Whenever the natives are showing a stranger the spot, they cover up their faces and walk backward in the direction of the spring, pointing toward it with outstretched hand behind the back.

A famous philosopher was discussing truth. "There are three times," he said, "when a man is justified in telling a falsehood. They are, first, to a woman; second, for a woman; and third—well, I forgot the third."

Wanted a Variety.

That is a good story of the charming American woman, who was about to partake for the first time of what our English cousins call "high meat."

"Phasant, I believe it was, was about to be served and the butler asked her, 'Will you have some of it stifle or 'high, me'am?'"

And the guest graciously replied: "You may serve me a little of both its tail and its eye, please."

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

ON MISUNDERSTANDINGS.

"IF AN injury cannot be pardoned in silence it is far better then to say what we feel about it."—Dora Meigari.

A young couple whom I know are planning to undertake a very dangerous experiment; they are going to have a large house and go to housekeeping in partnership with another young couple.

The wife was talking over their plan with me. "I know it's a rather risky thing to do," she said, "but we both like the house and we can't either of us afford to take it alone. So we are just going to try it this way. And there's one thing that I'm going to do that I think ought to help a lot. The day we start I'm going to say to all of them, 'Now if any time I say anything or do anything that any one of you doesn't like, before you get offended or hurt and begin to act cool and stiff, please come to me and tell me about it, and see if I really meant it the way you thought or if there isn't some explanation that will clear things up, or if I'm not willing to try to do better. I'll do the same by you, and I think that ought to keep the atmosphere clear and prevent any trouble from starting.'"

Now I wouldn't dare prophesy that even with that prologue the undertaking will succeed. It has always been my notion that no one house, if it covers an acre, is big enough for two families. But I do think that if the four people concerned honestly follow that plan of action they will have a far greater chance of keeping harmony in the double house than otherwise.

For how many heartburnings, how many coolnesses, how many lifelong feuds start not from any actual unkindness or offense, but simply from a wrong construction put upon some perfectly well meant word or deed.

How many times if the offended one had gone directly to the offender and asked an explanation, a few words would have blown the trouble away like chaff before the wind.

A word in time often saves nine hundred. I am looking back now to a time when I brooded over what I thought was intended as a cruel criticism from a very dear friend. For weeks I let the hurt fester. Finally I spoke out and she easily explained that the words I thought were intended to hurt me were merely a chance quotation of a catch-word which she thought I knew and would understand.

Why build such tremendous structures of unhappiness and offense on such tottering foundations? Some day they will surely come tumbling down about your ears and overwhelm you in the ruins of shame and wasted friendship.

If you must build these foolish and ugly structures at least make sure that you have some good foundation.

Domestic Science DEPARTMENT

CONDUCTED BY Mrs. Alice Gitchell Kirk

"Before beginning to cook, make sure that the hands and nails are perfectly clean and the hair neatly dressed." The above is quoted from good authority and should be followed. But the strange thing in the above quotation was that the one great big fact was lost sight of entirely, and that was the dress of the housekeeper who was to prepare the meal.

There is a great psychology in dress; having its effect on the individual and everyone else with whom we come in contact. The artists who have designed fashions for years have recognized this from the social side; but it is only recently that special thought has been given to dress in the home, and never, so far as I know, from the side which recognizes the psychology of dress, in relation to the work in the kitchen. Any costliest garment has usually been good enough there. A dark dress, instead of a light colored one; a dark apron, instead of a light colored or white one. Tell me why? We do not cook or wash dishes on our clothes, but the stove and dishpan are used for their respective work. Then why put on a dark, homely, gingham apron, full of gathers all around the belt, to pick up all the dirt possible?

Let us give some experiments which we have tried in several years' study of this work. Arise in the morning and dress with as few clothes as necessary, possibly leaving off the corset and put on a dressing sacque or kimono, slippers and hair in a loose, untidy fashion. Start the breakfast. Now study the lack of interest in the preparation of this meal or the eating of it. The food and serving must necessarily be in accordance with your dress and your interest. There is really no strong desire to put things in order after the meal. You would rather sit round and say, "How I hate to cook." "I never did like to wash dishes and keep house," and many other depressing thoughts, for unrest and unhappiness follow naturally. Could not be otherwise. Now, let us change. Remove the clothing, take a quick cold or tepid bath in the tub or with the sponge. Five minutes is plenty of time for this. Put on all the necessary clothes for neatness and comfort and watch the change in attitude of mind as you progress. Good shoes, low or high as you choose, but comfortable heels; rubber ones are exceptionally good where there is much standing. Comb the hair, not necessarily in the height of fashion, with all the "apparatuses" thereunto, but in a neat, becoming manner, and then put on that pretty one-piece house dress. With low, comfortable neck and three-quarter sleeves. Now tie on that clean white or light apron, smooth in front, with no gathers to pick the dirt up, but plain in front, and I'll assure you by this time you can hardly wait to get to the kitchen to prepare the meal, or to go on with whatever work or pleasure you have planned for the day. If you are neat in dress, the cooking and kitchen will be equally as attractive. Careless dressing makes careless cooking, indifferent and dissatisfied housekeeping. It cannot be otherwise. Incidentally, it is a fine way to keep your husband's love, prevent divorces and lead to perfect contentment and happiness in the home.

An Everyday Cake

Here is a simple and inexpensive cake that can be varied in many ways with different frostings and icings. It looks a little nicer baked in a tube pan, but will be equally as good baked in a square loaf.

K. C. Gold Cake

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine.

3 cup butter; 3 cup sugar; yolks of 4 eggs, beaten light; 1 cup flour, less 2 level teaspoonsful; 2 level teaspoonsful K. C. Baking Powder; 1 cup milk; grated rind of 1 orange.

Sift flour and baking powder together three times; cream butter and sugar, beat yolks of eggs, add these to creamed mixture, and lastly add the moisture and flour alternately, beating batter until smooth. Gold Cake can only be made successfully by beating yolks of eggs, very, very creamy and light lemon colored, using a rotary beater. The rotary beater is the only beater that will do justice to the yolks of eggs. The beating kills all egg taste and improves the texture of the cake.

Cocoanut Frosting

Beat the whites of 2 eggs dry; gradually beat in half a cup of sifted confectioner's sugar and continue the beating until the frosting is smooth, thick and glossy; then beat in grated cocoanut, fresh or prepared, and spread upon the cake. This frosting is made thick by beating rather than by sugar.

Save this recipe. You will want to use it frequently. Or better, send us the colored certificate packed in each 25-cent can of K. C. Baking Powder and we will mail you "The Cook's Book" containing this and 89 other baking recipes equally good—all by Mrs. Hill, Jacques Mig. Co., Chicago.

MORE PAPER BAG COOKERY.

Tomatoes Baked in Small Paper Bags.—Wash the tomatoes, lay them in greased paper bags. It is nice to allow a bag for each tomato and serve them in the bag. Bake in a moderate oven for twenty minutes. They should be tender, without being broken. The flavor of tomatoes baked this way is so much better than it is worth trying.

Stuffed Onions.—Parboil a sufficient number of medium-sized onions for the meal, put them into cold water, drain and, when cold, remove the centers. Fill the onions with a savory stuffing of chopped ham, or nuts or bits of sausage; anything that will make a stuffing of sufficient flavor. Place in a buttered bag with a little water and butter, and bake for three-quarters of an hour. Remove from the bag to a hot vegetable dish, sprinkle with salt and pepper and serve with the sauce from the bag poured around them.

Baked Potatoes.—Parboil for ten minutes a sufficient amount of potatoes for the family, then place in a buttered paper bag with a few table-spoonfuls of butter. Bake for half an hour, then tear open the bag, sprinkle with parsley and serve from the bag, placed on a platter. Salt should be added to the potatoes before putting them in the bag. The flavor of potatoes baked in this manner is really surprising to those who have never eaten them.

A fish steak may be stuffed and laid in a paper bag and baked, making a most elegant dish.

Liver, previously parboiled and cooked in a paper bag, would never be recognized as the same dish which we so often serve on our tables. Lay the bacon in the bag, and on these pieces of calf's liver, which have been well scalded in boiling water, season and fold the bag; lay on the rack in a hot oven and bake for twenty minutes or until the bag is a golden brown. Slide the bag off on a hot platter and carry to the table before opening.

Pigeons, squabs and small game are delicious baked in paper bags. Stuff with duck, after parboiling, with a bunch of celery or an onion, and put into the buttered bag. Bake in a hot oven for twenty to thirty minutes.

Nellie Maxwell.

DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN Food Specialist

CHEW MEAT MODERATELY.

The result of experiments made by Prof. L. F. Foster, as reported in the International Chemists' congress in New York, indicate that "when meat is boiled in 15 millimeter cubes, the difference in utilization is not pronounced, and cannot be considered as furnishing an experimental basis for the belief that food boiling is harmful. In other words, our data fail to show the advantage of Fletcherism or the harmfulness of food boiling." As flesh meat is digested principally in the stomach, where it should remain four or five hours, it is beneficial to chew it but little, as then it is less likely to cause the putrefaction which is the chief objection to flesh as human food. The saliva that is so necessary for the digestion of starch, is not necessary for the digestion of meat. But to say that food, and especially the cereals, may as well be boiled, is to contradict one of the most important fundamental principles of nutrition. All experience, as well as a knowledge of the principles involved, clearly indicate that cereals should be thoroughly chewed. The dog bolts his food with very little chewing, because he is carnivorous. There is no doubt that excessive mastication of flesh meat is injurious, because it facilitates the passage from the stomach. But when flesh meat is eaten with, say, rice and fruit as the major portion, and when these are thoroughly chewed, and subsequently mixed in the stomach, the tendency is to hasten the passage of the meat from the stomach; or, if the meat portion is larger, the tendency is to retain the lighter foods unduly, besides stimulating an excessive supply of gastric secretion, which those foods do not require. As frequently explained in these Hints, it is important to avoid mixing those foods which differ most in the manner of their digestion, and the greatest difference exists between meat and other foods, especially between meat and milk and between meat and fruits.

Materials: Layer figs, 1-4 lb.; suet, 1-4 lb.; flour, 1 cup; milk, 3-4 cup; bread crumbs, 3-4 cup; sugar, 1-3 cup; Sultana raisins, 1-4 cup; baking powder, level teaspoon; salt, 1-4 teaspoon.

Utensils: Measuring cup, measuring spoon, mixing bowl, pastry board, rolling pin, food chopper.

Directions: Chop the suet fine, put this into the mixing bowl with the sugar, salt, baking powder and crumbs. Make this into a paste to roll by gradually adding the milk. Roll out into an oblong shape, in the meantime having poured boiling water over the figs and raisins. Let stand for a few minutes, wipe dry and cut the figs in small pieces but not the raisins. Spread them over the paste, wet the edges with cold water and roll up. Place in a buttered pan, cover with margarine or buttered paper and steam for three hours. Turn out in a serving dish and send hot to the table and serve with lemon sauce.

Mistress Pepys' Diary

28—Up betimes and to market, where was such a goodly array of "Eats," as food is called in this strange country, that I mightily fear me, my greediness did run away with my purse.

But never have I had such delight in buying for the table, for the shops feast the eye, as well as provide satisfaction for the inner man. First must I stop at great boxes of grapes, purple and pink and a translucent green, whose goodness doth seem bursting from their skins. I pictured them piled on my gold and white platter, and straightway I ordered some to my basket, and was mightily amazed at the four heaping pounds that did cost me but a dime.

Then, some little pears of a dark purple pink attracted, which upon inquiry, I found to be fresh prunes, the like of which I had never heard of. And so these to my basket. They have a goodly taste, like to a piquant peach or a chastened plum. Methinks my husband will of them eat heartily.

Then was I much amazed to see red, luscious strawberries, of which we have none in London now for a six-month or more. And by the side of them, baskets of great juicy blackberries and velvety raspberries. And looking further, I could scarce believe all that my eyes did see of fruit,—golden pears and red apples and big yellow grapefruit and oranges and green melons and purple figs, and every known fruit it has pleased God to make the year round, all here at one time, so bounteous is this country.

And all displayed so temptingly it is a sore effort to pass them by, which in truth few do. For as I stood and watched, those on the street would stop, and their eyes would glow, and their tongue would wet their lips, as if already the goodly taste of these fruits were in their mouth. And they would into the shop, and pull a grape here and take a berry there, which methinks the good man of the shop would not care to see, but which, since everybody here is of great good-nature, he minded not. And in a few minutes, the one thus tempted in was handing silver from his purse and going away with much delight on his face and a mighty sized package under his arm.

I wonder not now that the people here are of such size and do eat so much. The food is so goodly to look upon and of such savour, that one can do naught but eat.

It being a day of Thanks, the which my husband is pleased to observe, I filled my basket with abundance of this goodly fruit, till naught space seemed left for aught else. But as is the order of the day, I must a good fat turkey, and abundance of vegetables, of which I did choose fresh, crackling peas which we have not at home at this season, and big ripe tomatoes, and that succulent tender vegetable, the squash, and divers others in great quantity, forgetting not crisp, curly lettuce for the salad.

Then home, and methinks I shall have an extraordinary good dinner.

Barbara Boyd.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson:—I am a young man earning $175 per month. My board and lodging cost me on an average of $35 per month, and I am unable to save any money. I have only two bad habits—smoking and chewing tobacco.

I go out in company a good deal and it costs me a good deal of money, as I always try to keep up a good appearance. I am also engaged, but when I told my expected wife I had no money saved she said she would not marry me until I had a home furnished and all paid for.

I would not ask you this at all, but I have no relation living. I was an adopted child and ran away from home when I was fifteen years old. I am twenty-eight now. L. L. D.

You certainly ought to have saved something by this time. First of all, I would suggest that you ask the girl to teach you to save. If she loves you she will be interested and glad to do all she can.

Then get an account book, with debit on one side and credit on the other. Put down on the debit side every sum you spend. At the end of each week balance up, go over your expenditures and see where you might have cut down. Then make up your mind to cut down and DO IT even if some of your friends call you a tightwad. Money in the savings bank is worth losing a few good-fellow friends.

You are on the way to lonely old age, my dear young man, if you keep on as you have been doing. Show the girl that she is worth working for and worth a little self-sacrifice on your part. You will be the better man for it.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—Is it proper for a widow to marry a bachelor? (2)—How old should a girl be before she has a beau? (3)—What would be suitable for a traveling suit this winter? D. M. K.

(1) Yes. (2) She should be at least eighteen years old. (3) Dark blue serge is lawfully suitable.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—How

The Gold Dust Twins' Philosophy

NOW you have often said:—"Oh dear, I dread when eating time comes near. It's not so much the cooking, grub, but cleaning after,"—there's the "rub." Each kitchen holds a mass of work, no tidy little wife should shirk.

The kitchen floor, the kitchen sink, the kitchen pots as black as ink, the kitchen kettles and the pans, the silver, glass and cups and cans; wherever you may look, the toil means more than any kettles boil. To just "prepare" a meal is "fun," but work, with THAT is scarce "begun."

If those who stay up days and nights to win the cause of "Women's Rights" would only vote the GOLD DUST PLAN they soon would have the best of men.

More time for comfort and for smiles; more time to play a woman's wiles, for once the GOLD DUST TWINS appear, Hard Labor's cry you never hear; frail woman is a queenly soul who plays the "Take-it-Easy" role. Each GOLD DUST package sets her free by bearing out its guarantee, and never more those household woes that every weary woman knows. Pile up the dishes as you will, the GOLD DUST TWINS will clean 'em still. Old floors and woodwork sinks and pans, turn out as Master Cleaner Plans. From sun to sun, and chore to chore, your tasks will fret you nevermore.

HAIR STOPS FALLING, DANDRUFF DISAPPEARS—25 CENT "DANDERINE"

Save Your Hair! Beautify it! Invigorate Your Scalp! Danderine Grows Heavy, Luxuriant Hair and We Can Prove It.

Try as you will, after an application of Danderine, you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or a loose or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most, will be after a few weeks' use, when you will actually see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine now will immediately double the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small

MILTON

Milton, Nov. 22.—The chicken pie supper last evening at the Congregational church was a great gathering of all denominations and a lively sprinkling of those who are not denominational and all were filled to capacity by the good things to eat and in addition both saints and sinners had a jolly good time; and we think this pleasant event would bear more frequent repetition than annually.

MOOSE BAND TAKES AUDITORIUM LEASE

Will Have Use of Building for Next Five Months—Large Crowds Attend Indoor Fair.

For the next five months the auditorium will be managed by the Moose band, that organization having obtained a lease on the building for that length of time. The roller skating season will open there on the afternoon of Thanksgiving day, the Moose band furnishing music. Basketball will also be played at the auditorium and matches will soon be arranged for. Other attractions will also be put on.

Good attendance has marked the indoor fair held at the auditorium this week under the auspices of the Moose band, and the crowd last night was exceptionally good. The band has given nightly concerts on the street, followed by others at the auditorium. The share of the proceeds retained by the band will be to go toward the purchase of uniforms. The fair closes tomorrow night. Fourteen people from Madison motor down last evening to attend the fair, making the trip in two cars. The management has been unsuccessful in securing a couple to be married at the auditorium this evening.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES.

THE TOWN COUNCIL.

(By Howard L. Rahr.)

THE town council is a body of patriotic citizens who are elected for the purpose of improving all of the streets except those upon which the aldermen reside. They are chosen by 1 per cent. of the people at a select gathering known as a caucus.

Town caucuses are usually held on prayer meeting night, so as to curb the enthusiasm of the church element and are attended by the aldermen, a handful of dates, the members of their families and those of the office force who owe them money.

This arrangement ensures the selection of a ticket which will stand hitched whenever the franchises expire.

The first action of a new council is to remit the taxes of the aldermen and their immediate relatives and call off a proposed sewer extension which looked as if it might strike the mayor in his coin purse. It is a cheerful sight to see the unanimity with which an incoming council will vote new curbs and gutters, sidewalk assessments and paving taxes upon people who did not support them in the preceding election.

The average councilman works for glory and the privilege of being chairman of the street committee. In some towns his salary consists of a $1.00 bill and an annual trip to some orgy of the municipal league, where he battles useful information and other beverages. Very few councilmen make any money out of office without having to put most of it up for bail.

One of the most hopeful features of American life is the eagerness with which a prominent business man will electioneer for a seat on the council, in order to become a doormat for a community of sad-eyed kickers. If there is anything that will shoot a prosperous business full of holes, it is to place the owner on the council, where everybody who owes the store on book account can remind him how he voted.

We should have more patience with our councilmen. They work hard and prefer fame to perquisites,

Every Home Needs This Fine Remedy

A Mild Reliable Laxative-Tonic Is Something No Family Should Be Without.

No well-regulated home should be without a laxative for there is scarcely a day in a family of several persons that someone doesn't complain of a headache, of sleeplessness, or show the first signs of a cold.

A laxative then becomes a necessity or what was a trifling congestion at the beginning may run into a serious cold or fever. No harsh remedy is needed, but simply a mild laxative-tonic that will make the liver active and stir up the bowels. People who have tried a great many things, and are themselves heads of families who have seen the little life run to big ones, will tell you that there is nothing better than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which you can obtain at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar a bottle, the latter being the family size.

Among the great believers in Syrup Pepsin for constipation in old or young and as a general household emergency remedy, are Mrs. V. M. Hull, Wyacena, Wis., and Mr. P. M. Smith, Dundick, Ind. and they always have a bottle of it in the home. It is scientifically compounded and its purity is vouched for. Mothers give it to their babies, and grown people, taking a little larger amount, find it equally effective. It is mild and gentle, pleasant-tasting and free from gripping.

It does not hide behind the name of a popular fruit or vegetable, and is absolutely free from any prohibited ingredient. Families who once use Syrup Pepsin forever after avoid cathartics, salts, pills and other harsh medicines, for these only do temporary good, are nauseous and a shock to any delicate system. Such things should never be given to children.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 413 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

QUICKLY CURES THE WORST BACKACHE

New Remedy Makes Kidney Troubles, Bladder Disorders, and Rheumatic Pains Disappear, as If By Magic.

It is no longer necessary for anyone to suffer with backaching, kidney trouble, have disagreeable bladder and urinary disorders to contend with, or be tortured with rheumatism, stiff joints, and its heart-wrenching pains, for the new discovery, Croxone, quickly and surely cures all such troubles.

Croxone is the most wonderful remedy yet devised for ridding the system of uric acid and driving out all the poisonous impurities which cause such troubles. It is entirely different from all other remedies. It is not like anything else ever used for the purpose. It acts on the principle of removing the cause. Pills, tablets, and other remedies at the best, merely stimulate the kidneys, giving temporary relief. Croxone cleans out the poisons.

It soaks right in through the walls, membranes and linings, like water in a sponge, neutralizes, dissolves, and makes the kidneys soft and filter away, all the uric acid and poisons from the blood, and leaves the kidneys and urinary organs clean, strong, healthy, and well.

It matters not how long you have suffered, how old you are, or what you have used, the very principle of Croxone is such, that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. There is nothing else on earth like it. It starts to work the minute you take it and relieves you the first time you use it.

If you suffer with pains in your back, and sides, or have any signs of kidney, bladder troubles, or rheumatism, such as puffy swellings under the eyes or in the feet and ankles, if you are nervous, tired, and run down, or bothered with urinary disorders, Croxone will quickly relieve you of your misery. You can secure an original package of Croxone at trifling cost from any first class druggist. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if it fails in a single case.

Heart to Heart Talks

By EDWIN A. NYE

TONY DONATO, HERO.

Tony Donato, an Italian section man, was in the employ of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

For nearly twenty years he had rendered faithful service.

A wife and six little girls were entirely dependent upon his labors.

One day last May with others he was working on the tracks near the New Haven depot. An express train was coming in over the freight tracks. Donato saw that a heavy tie was lying upon the tracks.

Quickly the Italian leaped down and threw off the tie. Before he could jump back to safety the engine caught him and crushed out his life.

He had averted a catastrophe.

At first the railroad company refused to pay more than the funeral expenses and a month's wages to Donato's family. Charitable persons intervened, and the company finally paid the destitute family $3,000.

The sum should have been $5,000, the minimum pay for the loss of a human life.

Now there is a movement to secure the Carnegie hero fund, a fund that is distributed to the survivors of those who distinguish themselves for bravery in the saving of human lives. So far this attempt has been unsuccessful.

This is the objection offered: Donato, it is claimed by the trustees of the fund, was killed while in the discharge of his duty and therefore is not entitled to recognition.

Forsooth!

Cannot a man be a hero in the performance of his duty? Is not the brave engineer who goes down with his engine in order to save his passengers merely doing his duty? And is he any the less a hero?

But—

In this case the objection cannot hold. Donato was not engaged in the mere performance of his duty. He was not paid to remove ties from the track at the risk of his life.

Donato did this gracious deed solely from an unselfish impulse. He wanted to save the train and the people.

He was only an Italian workman—

But a hero nevertheless.

Can there be anything in the fact that Donato happened to be an Italian? Is there prejudice because the hero was a "dago?"

Only a dago, but—

His family was as dear to him as yours is to you, and he desired to live, as do you. In obedience to a merciful impulse he died to save others.

The Carnegie hero fund trustees will wait long before they receive an application so worthy.

Furniture Hint.

The bluish cast that comes on highly polished furniture in damp weather can be removed by wiping the furniture with lukewarm water in which there is a tablespoonful of ammonia to a gallon of water. Dry the furniture thoroughly and heat the room, if possible, for the dampness of the room is what causes it and plainly indicates that the room must be dried out in some manner.

Their Own Race the Enemy.

It has been found in Nova Scotia that the lobster's chief enemy is not the dogfish but the lobster.

'A MODERN EVE.'

Real interest is being evidenced by music lovers in the forthcoming engagement of the Berlin operetta, "A Modern Eve", which, Mort H. Singer will present at the Myers theatre Wednesday evening Nov. 27. The delightful melodies of Victor Hollaender and Jean Gilbert, composers of the music of "A Modern Eve", already enjoy a widespread vogue. Mort H. Singer is credited with the greatest success in his producing career in this musical offering, which was imported from Berlin.

GEORGIE DREW MENDWIN IN "A MODERN EVE," MYERS THEATRE WEDNESDAY, NOV. 27.

and presented last April in Chicago and sprang into immediate favor. Its record run of sustained capacity business speaks volumes for its merits. Mr. Singer has been liberally compensated for his elaborate staging of the Berlin operetta, which is pronounced the last thing in scenic environment and in costumes. The scenes of the story are laid in France and interest centers about the Cascadier family, consisting of father, mother and two attractive daughters. While advocating sex equality, the mother assumes superiority for her sex, and dominates the household. The husband and father, is in reality the housekeeper while Mme. Cascadier practices law and attends her clubs. The two daughters are also engaged in professional pursuits, one as a physician, the other as an artist. They are to be independent of men and above silly love affairs. But two radiant and desirable suitors complicate matters, finally routing the mother and compelling the daughters to capitulate to love. Among the most attractive numbers to be heard are "Goodbye, Everybody", "Hello, Sweetheart", "You're Such a Lonesome Moon Tonight", "Tita, My Marigold", "Is The Girl You Married Still The Girl You Love?" and "Every-never would have been written. However Cicero Butts fell, and Raymond Hitchcock will show how great the fall was thereof when he appears at Myers Theatre Sunday, November 24. The scenes will show the foyer of the Alcazar Music Hall, a hotel in St. Petersburg, and a great carnival in the latter city before the czar's winter palace. How Butts succeeded in passing himself off for a dangerous nihilist and how he was appointed to kill the czar and resigned the commission are episodes in this musical play. It is said to be a play of fun, melody, romance, and adventure, wherein upwards of one hundred people take part. The part of the Red Widow, will be taken by Flora Zabelle.

"TESS OF STORM COUNTRY"

"Tess of Storm Country" Jones and Crane's new play of life along the shores of mysterious Lake Cayuga appear at Myers theatre on Thursday Nov. 28, Thanksgiving matinee and evening. It is said the cast and production carried by this company is the most pretentious ever yet attempted by this firm which is saying a great deal when one looks back over the long string of successes handled by them in the past few years.

William J. Schlafke, Auburndale, telescopic umbrella; Aaron G. Seberg, Racine, rock and boulder planer; Simon Volz, Milwaukee, bottle conveyor and drainer; Frederick E. Venzel, La Crosse, automatic door; Bernhardt Zindel, Green Bay, water-gauge.

Doctors Said He Would Die.

A Friend's Advice Saves Life.

I wish to speak of the wonderful cure that I have received from your noted Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder cure. Last summer I was taken with severe pains in my back and sides. I could not breathe without difficulty. I tried all the different doctors from far and near, but they said it was no use to doctor as I would die anyway. I was at the end of my rope and was so miserable with pain and the thought that I must die that words cannot tell how I felt. One day a friend told me of the wonderful help she had received from Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. She gave me one of your pamphlets which I read and determined to try Swamp-Root. After taking half a bottle I felt better. Have now taken ten bottles and am well as I ever was, thanks to Swamp-Root. I wish to tell all suffering people that have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is the best medicine on the market.

All persons doubting this statement can write to me and I will answer them directly.

Yours very truly,

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Nov. 22, 1872.—Party Last Evening: Mr. and Mrs. J. Richardson gave a party at their residence last evening at which over one hundred of their friends assembled and enjoyed the pleasures of a most successful affair. The comfort of the guests was most generously provided for and all the little details which tend to enhance the enjoyment of such an occasion were scrupulously attended to. Much of the beauty and fashion of the city was present, the rich attire of the ladies being a marked feature of the occasion. The excellent music of the orchestra band, furnished by the corps of volunteers with an opportunity to indulge in their favorite recreation, while various amusements were provided for those whose tastes led them to seek pleasure in other directions. The festivities continued until towards morning. It was one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season. Brief Items: D. C. Cheever, of the third assembly district of Rock county, has been appointed by the governor as a member of the legislative visiting committee. Dr. William Horne has returned from Chicago where he has been for a week or two past studying the horse disease. The Janesville Cornet band and not the Boyer City band will play at Apollo hall tonight.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher

Oh, we have laws as thick as straws upon a stable floor; the harmless sport is hauled to court and fined till he is sore. You cannot walk around a block but what some laws are cracked, and you must sneak before the beak and by him up be flogged. For trifling things we're pulled by jugs, and carted off to jail, and we must spend of time no end a rustling round for bail. But if a crank like Mr. Schrank decides some one to slay, he takes his mon and buys a gun and no one says him nay. Thou shalt not place a bet on race, or play a slot machine; thou shalt not speed the foaming steed or your chugging machine; but you may go at will and blow yourself for deadly tools; which makes us pause and think that laws are oft laid down by fools. You cannot get a cigarette in divers moral states, but you can still buy guns to kill in wagon loads or crates. You

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY
Avoid risks. Two natures will seem to struggle in your mind. The advantages offered by each should be taken, but when they conflict your actions should be according to reason, rather than impulse. Those born today will be positive in character and will lead eventful lives. More depends upon their early understanding of the results of different actions than their unquestioned obedience.

THE DAILY NOVELETTE

At the Masked Ball
It was at the masked ball, as a glance at the title would have told you. Music and turkey trotters were in the air; champagne and joy were unconfined. All night had Periwinkle Slattery, disguised as a gentleman, been following the beautiful figure in the pea green domino. He had had two dances with her, and she had squeezed his hand repeatedly as they floated hither and back to the strains of the dreamy music. At last the time came to unmask. "Tear off your mask!" he cried eagerly, kissing her. "I know your face is as beautiful as the Peruvian dawn!" She tore off her mask and, behold, who the heck was it but his wife! "You!" he cried, and in his mortification he phoned for a coup de burlesque and buried his face in it.

CAINVILLE CENTER

Cainville Center, Nov. 21.—Congratulations are in order for Mr. and Mrs. Will Brown of Evansville. Mr. Brown was formerly a Magnolia boy and he has a host of friends here that extend their best wishes. Frank Dreifuss spent last week in the northern woods hunting deer, but did not get any. Lee Worthing and wife were over Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. William Worthing. Harvey Walton of Evansville is doing some repainting on Warren Andrews' house. Florence Wolcott, who has been caring for the sick at Wilbur Andrews' returned to her home Wednesday.

Lizzie Bennett is taking care of the sick at Mr. Wiessenberg's in Center. Mrs. George Townsend attended a Rock Neighbor class adoption at Janesville, Tuesday.

AFTON

Afton, Nov. 21.—Miss Bosworth of Beloit, for nineteen years a missionary in China, will speak at the regular morning service at the Baptist church next Sunday, at 11:30. This will be an interesting service and it is hoped that a good congregation will be present to hear Miss Bosworth. Mrs. George Robb has returned from a visit with relatives at Anna, Wis. Miss Selma Hammel, who has been visiting friends in Milwaukee for the past ten days, is expected home this week. Mrs. Lizzie Waite and Mrs. Etta Otis were Janesville visitors Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Eddy and family spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Eddy and family. Charles Griffin has returned from a ten days' trip in the northern part of the state. Mr. Griffin reports that he had a fine time but did not succeed in getting a deer. His brother, Benjamin, of Janesville, who was also one of the party of eight, was more fortunate, he getting the only deer that was gotten by the party. Dr. Timm has moved into Supt. O. D. Antisdell's house. He has been living on Mrs. Inman's farm, near the village. Frank Douglas of Janesville is installing a furnace in Mrs. Josephine Antisdell's house, occupied by her son, Roy. Frank Williams has enlarged his barn and built a garage.

IT'S RISKY
IT'S A BIG RISK to hold an auction sale unless it is well advertised. You put up $2000 worth of property for sale; maybe it will bring $2000; maybe $1500; maybe less.

It all depends upon how well you advertise it. One that is thoroughly advertised cannot help but be a success. Almost every sale that is advertised in the Gazette brings more than the proprietor expected.

You can save a few dollars by trying to get along with a few bills or running a small ad in a paper with little circulation, but how about results? Will you find that you have saved anything when you count your money at the close of the sale?

Dare you take chances on $2000 worth of property to save a few dollars at the outset?

Who Said Corns? I Use "GETS-IT!"

IT WORKS ON A SURE, NEW PLAN.

"Glory! Come and See How GETS-IT Works!"

"GETS-IT" the new corn cure on a new principle, works like the touch of a fairy's wand. No more knives, razors, files or other instruments of torture for corn sufferers. No more salves, plasters and bandages that hurt the rest of the toe more than they relieve the corn.

"GETS-IT" never irritates or turns the true flesh raw. It is safe as water. But my, how it does get after corns, bunions, callouses and warts, painlessly, but it shrivels 'em right up till they drop off, leaving the firm, healthy flesh underneath.

"GETS-IT" is guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is refunded. All druggists sell "GETS-IT" at 25 cents a bottle, or it will be sent on request of price by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago. Sold in Janesville by McKee & Buss, Smith Drug Co., Reliable Drug Co., J. P. Baker & Son.

Musterole-Quick Relief No Blister!

MUSTEROLE is a clean, white ointment, made with the oil of mustard. It does all the work of the old-fashioned mustard plaster, does it better and does not blister. You do not have to bother with a cloth. You simply rub it on—and the pain is gone!

Millions of people have adopted MUSTEROLE in place of the mustard plaster.

You will find it in large hospitals. Doctors and nurses use MUSTEROLE and recommend it to their patients.

They will gladly tell you what relief it gives from Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Croup, Stiff Neck, Asthma, Neuralgia, Congestion, Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Pains and Aches of the Back or Joints, Sprains, Sore Muscles, Bruises, Chills, Frosted Feet, Colds of the Chest (it prevents Pneumonia).

At your druggist's in 25c and 50c jars, and a special large hospital size for $2.50.

Accept no substitute. If your druggist cannot supply you, send 25c or 50c to the Musterole Company, Cleveland, Ohio, and we will mail you a jar, postage prepaid.

"Musterole has helped me so much that I can hardly do without it."—Mrs. G. W. Thompson, San Antonio, Texas.

Honest Advice to Consumptives

Somewhere there exists a vast amount of skepticism as to the possibility of curing Consumption. We state none but facts, and are sincere in what we assert.

If we were afflicted with Tuberculosis, we should do precisely what we ask others to do—take Eckman's Alternative. I have no fear of Consumption. The reason we should do this and warrant we have for asking all Consumptives to take it is that we have had reports of many recoveries, one of which follows:

1619 Susquehanna Ave., Tulsa, Pa. "Gentlemen: For two years I was afflicted with hemorrhages of the lungs, the number totaled nearly one hundred. Our family physician advised another climate, as to remain would probably be fatal. However, I remained, and in February of 1912, I was taken with a severe attack of pneumonia. When I recovered sufficiently to walk about the house, I was left with a frightful hacking cough, which no medicine I had taken could alleviate. It was at this time, March, 1912, that I learned of and started taking Eckman's Alternative. In a short time my cough was gone and I was pronounced well. Since that time I have had two slight attacks of pneumonia and I have resorted to no other medicine to effect a cure."

"I am at present in excellent health and feel as long as I can obtain Eckman's Alternative, I have no fear of Consumption. I cannot speak too highly for the good it has done."

(Signed) HOWARD E. KLOTZ, Eckman's Alternative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain opiates or habit-forming drugs. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries, and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa. for more evidence. For sale by all leading druggists.

Sold Smith Drug Co., McKee & Buss, Peoples Drug Co., in Janesville.

The Lady of the Mount

by FREDERIC S. ISNAM
AUTHOR OF "THE STROLLERS," "UNDER THE ROSE," ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WATERS

Copyright 1912 by the J. P. Baker & Son.

"You are strangely faint-hearted to pursue your advantage," said old Pierre shrewdly. "But," as the other made a gesture, "I put it to your ladyship as you desired me to, and—"

"She consented?" eagerly.

Pierre shook his head. "No, mon capitaine! She will have none of them. And you had heard her: 'A great wrong was unintentionally, she accented the word, 'done the Seigneur Desaurac by my father, which has now been set right!' It has, I assented, and would have urged further your proposal, when she stopped me. 'Speak no more of this matter!' 'Twas all she said; but you should have seen her face, and how her eyes shone!'"

The young man, looking down, made no answer. "An you are not satisfied," continued Pierre, "broach the question to my lady, yourself."

"I?" A look, half bitter, crossed the other's dark face. "Her father's enemy! Through whose servant, all her misfortunes came about! To revive anew what must so often pass in her mind?"

"Well, well; no doubt you know best, and, certes, now you remind me, she did turn cold and distant when I spoke of your coming. But let idle prejudices enter into practical concerns—it's on a par of all improvidence. Why, 'twas not long ago, she brought me a jewel or two; Marie, it seems, had foresight enough to snatch them before feeling from the Mount, and begged me to take them for your kindness, she said; which I did, seeing she would not have it otherwise—nor let herself be regarded as one who could not pay. But to business, mon capitaine!"

And thereafter, for some time, they, or rather, Pierre, talked; the others, save the Marquis, returned to the ship, and only Nanette, busy putting everything to rights, lingered in the room. At length, after papers had been signed and changed hands, the conversation of the host began to wane; frequently had he sipped from a bottle of liqueur at his elbow and now found himself nodding; leaned back more comfortably in the great chair and suffered his head to fall. The clock ticked out the seconds; the young man continued to sit motionless.

"A mon beau!" Nanette's voice, lightly humming, caused him to look up; with the old mocking expression on her face, the inn-keeper's daughter paused near his chair.

"It was kind of you, mon capitaine, to bring my lady her Marquis!" As she spoke, she looked toward the garden.

"Why not?" he asked steadily. "The passport and orders were correct."

"Were they, indeed?" she said, tapping the floor with her foot. "You remain with us a few days; or, as of old, must we be content with a brief visit?" she went on.

"We leave tomorrow."

"Tomorrow?" The girl's eyes were a tentative expression. "Late?"

"Early!"

"Oh; in that case, perhaps I shan't have time," Nanette paused; looked at her father; old Pierre's slumbers were not to be broken.

"For what?" asked the Black Seigneur shortly.

"To tell you something!"

"Why not—now?"

"You are inquisitive?"

"No!"

"Even if it were about—" she looked toward the door that led to the garden.

"The Lady Elise?" he said quickly. "Oh, you are interested? 'A mon beau!' a moment she hummed. 'You do not urge me?'"

"Wherefore?" laconically, "when you have made up your mind to tell!"

"You are right!" She threw back her head. "I have made up my mind! How well you understand women! Almost as well," she laughed mockingly, "as a ship!" He made no response.

"When you thanked me once, mon capitaine, for all it pleased you to say I did for you, you may remember," her voice was defiant, "I did not once gainsay you!" More curiously he regarded her. "Perhaps it pleased me," also, "a touch of prouder constraint in her tone, 'I appreciate your over-generous proposal through Pierre Laroché; although, of course,' her figure very straight, 'I could not—it was impossible—to entertain it. But I am glad you were able to prove. You will understand—and, my lady, ended quickly, 'I thank you!'"

He looked at her long. "It is I who am in your debt!"

"You?" Her brows lifted.

"Yes."

"I don't think I quite understand."

In spite of herself and her resolution, the proud eyes seemed to shrink from a nameless something in his gaze.

"Nor I! Nanette was talking with me last night!"

"Nanette!"

In words, direct, unequivocal, he told her what he had learned; and although my lady laughed, as at something absurd, and strove to maintain an unvarying mien, his eyes challenged evasion; demanded truth! At that moment the space where they stood seemed, perhaps, too small; to

"The Lady Elise!" he cried, an abrupt glow on the dark face.

Nanette's eyes noted and fell, but she went on hurriedly: "She knew of the ambush in the forest; saw part of the note I dropped on the beach—it was brought to her by a quick rush of words, as if desirous to be done with it, Nanette told all that had transpired at the Mount."

Incredulously, eagerly, he listened; when, however, she had finished, he said nothing; sat like a man bewildered.

"Well!" said the girl impatiently. Still he looked down. "Well?" she repeated, so sharply old Pierre stirred; lifted his head.

"Eh, my dear!"

She went to the mantel; took from it a candle.

"Seigneur finds you such poor company," she said, "he desires a light to retire!"

The dawn smote the heavens with fiery lashes of red; from the east the wind began to blow harder, and on the sea the waves responded with a more forcible sweep. At a window in the inn, the Black Seigneur a moment looked out on the gay flowers and the sea and the worn grim face of the cliff; then left his room and made his way downstairs. No one was yet, apparently, astir; an hour or so must elapse ere the time set for departure, and, pending the turn of the tide and adieu to old Pierre, the young man stepped into the garden, through the gate, and, turning into a rocky path, strode out over the cliffs. The island was small; its walks limited, and soon, despite a number of difficulties in the way he had chosen, he found himself at its end—the verge of a great rock that projected out over the blue, sultry sea. For some moments he stood there, listening to the sounds in caverns below, watching the snow-capped waves, the ever-shifting spots on a vast map, and then, shaking off his reverie, started to return.

"A brisk wind to take us back to France," he said to himself; but his thoughts were not of possible April storms, or of his ship. His eyes, bright, yet perplexed, as if from some problem whose solution he had not yet found, were bent downward, only to be raised where the path demanded his closer attention. As he looked up, he became suddenly aware of the figure of a girl, who approached from the opposite direction.

A quick glint sprang to the young man's eyes, and, pausing, he waited; watched. At that point, the way ran over a rock, almost eaten through by the hungry sea, and she had already started to cross when he first saw her. The path was not dangerous; nor was it easy; only it called for certainty and assurance on the part of the one that elected to take it. My lady's light footstep was sure; although the wind swept rather sharply there, she held herself with confident poise, while from the brown eyes, shone a clear, steady light.

"I saw you leave the inn," she said, drawing near the comparatively sheltered spot, where he stood, "and knowing you would soon sail, followed. There is something I wanted to say, and—and felt I should have no other chance to tell you!"

Had she read what was passing in his brain, she would not have faced him, so confident; but, ignorant of what he had learned, the cause of varying lights in his dark eyes, the tender play of emotion on his strong features, she broached her subject with steadfastness of purpose.

"You went away so suddenly the last time. I had no opportunity, then, to thank you for all that you did; and so, I do now—thank you, I mean!"

Also, "a touch of prouder constraint in her tone, 'I appreciate your over-generous proposal through Pierre Laroché; although, of course,' her figure very straight, 'I could not—it was impossible—to entertain it. But I am glad you were able to prove. You will understand—and, my lady, ended quickly, 'I thank you!'"

He looked at her long. "It is I who am in your debt!"

"You?" Her brows lifted.

At a window in the inn, the Black Seigneur a moment looked out on the gay flowers and the sea and the worn grim face of the cliff; then left his room and made his way downstairs. No one was yet, apparently, astir; an hour or so must elapse ere the time set for departure, and, pending the turn of the tide and adieu to old Pierre, the young man stepped into the garden, through the gate, and, turning into a rocky path, strode out over the cliffs. The island was small; its walks limited, and soon, despite a number of difficulties in the way he had chosen, he found himself at its end—the verge of a great rock that projected out over the blue, sultry sea. For some moments he stood there, listening to the sounds in caverns below, watching the snow-capped waves, the ever-shifting spots on a vast map, and then, shaking off his reverie, started to return.

"A brisk wind to take us back to France," he said to himself; but his thoughts were not of possible April storms, or of his ship. His eyes, bright, yet perplexed, as if from some problem whose solution he had not yet found, were bent downward, only to be raised where the path demanded his closer attention. As he looked up, he became suddenly aware of the figure of a girl, who approached from the opposite direction.

A quick glint sprang to the young man's eyes, and, pausing, he waited; watched. At that point, the way ran over a rock, almost eaten through by the hungry sea, and she had already started to cross when he first saw her. The path was not dangerous; nor was it easy; only it called for certainty and assurance on the part of the one that elected to take it. My lady's light footstep was sure; although the wind swept rather sharply there, she held herself with confident poise, while from the brown eyes, shone a clear, steady light.

"I saw you leave the inn," she said, drawing near the comparatively sheltered spot, where he stood, "and knowing you would soon sail, followed. There is something I wanted to say, and—and felt I should have no other chance to tell you!"

Had she read what was passing in his brain, she would not have faced him, so confident; but, ignorant of what he had learned, the cause of varying lights in his dark eyes, the tender play of emotion on his strong features, she broached her subject with steadfastness of purpose.

"You went away so suddenly the last time. I had no opportunity, then, to thank you for all that you did; and so, I do now—thank you, I mean!"

All Evidence of Impure Blood and a Run-Down Condition.

When the blood becomes thin, poor, devitalized, nature cries out through such external and often painful evidence for help, and the safest, surest and most helpful remedy we know is Vinol.

This is because it is a combination of the two most world famed tonics—the medicinal, curative elements of cod liver oil (without the oil) and tonic iron for the blood. Vinol strengthens the digestive organs, creates a hearty appetite purifies and enriches the blood, creates strength.

Mary Lang of Altoona, Pa., says: "Ever since childhood, I have been delicate, and my blood poor, thin, and devitalized. Nothing seemed to help me until I took Vinol and it has built me up and made me strong."

We say positively there is nothing like Vinol to purify and enrich the blood and build up weak, run-down people. If it should fail in your case we will return your money. Smith Drug Co., Janesville, Wis.

The Specific Purpose of Nuroto is to Relieve Rheumatism Sciatica and Neuritis

To do one thing well is the single purpose of NURITO—the prescription which is specific for diseases which result from uric acid. That one thing it does better than any other prescription has ever done—absolutely relieves rheumatism, sciatica and neuritis. The physical agony—the pains and aches disappear, relieving you of the terrific mental stress which usually means a loss of the sleep and rest necessary to recuperate your powers and energy.

It is not a superficial or temporary relief, but a removal of the cause of the trouble; in a perfectly harmless way. Nuroto contains neither opiates nor narcotics—it is simply a scientific antidote and therefore a specific.

This is the only prescription which has been proven to the satisfaction of physicians that it will positively relieve rheumatic diseases.

The most stubborn cases are daily succumbing to it. Sold in powder form in $1 and $2 boxes. Macgrath Chemical Co., Flatiron Bldg., New York. For sale by J. P. BAKER & SON, and all other leading druggists.

No More Constipation

It's Me for Olive Tablets.

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and Calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing laxative.

No grilling is the "keynote" of these little sugar coated tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normal. They never force them to unnatural action.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are so easy to take that children do not regard them as "medicine" at all. If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Olive Tablets at bedtime. They're perfectly harmless.

Thousands take one every night just to keep right. Try them. "Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own." 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Co., Columbus, O.

SOCIAL SERVICE

By REV. J. H. RALSTON,
Secretary of Correspondence Department,
Meady Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT: I Cor. 15:2. "Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures, and he was buried, and rose again the third day according to the Scriptures."

Never were men more confused than today respecting almost every matter of concern.

The unrest in the world of business, education, scientific investigation, politics, and no less in religion, is universal. The confidence of the former days as to dependence on Christian experience, the certitude with reference to Christian doctrine, have gone, and there is great confusion in many minds as to what the gospel message is, and this confusion is making many Christians unhappy as they contemplate their mission as bearers of the gospel to the world.

The most cordially accepted interpretation of the gospel is that it is social service. Save others physically and ethically, and you save yourself. Belief in ethical culture or the work of moral and spiritual evolution working the gradual elimination of evil as now going on successfully, is with many the gospel.

But who should be the most trusted spokesman of such a subject? Would it not be one who is very near to the great teacher, Jesus? It would seem so, and we believe the Apostle Paul was just such a person, and that in the text he answered the question, "What is the Gospel?" He said he was declaring the gospel which he had preached, and immediately follows this statement with the text.

There are just two things here—the death of Christ, and the resurrection of Christ. The second of these is presented without elaboration or comment, "Christ rose again from the dead," but in the first, we have the death of Christ with the occasion of that death: the expiation of our sins, and the confirmation of the death by burial.

Died for Our Sins.

1. Christ died for our sins. The fact of the death of Christ on Calvary is generally received, but with most persons that death was simply that of an unfortunate young man who had lived a wonderful life, had manifested unselfishness to a degree never equaled by man, but who made a mistake by letting himself fall into the hands of his enemies and being put to death. The first cause for the death of Christ was our sins. With some persons the death of Jesus Christ has no possible connection with man's relationship to God, it is merely inspirational and of moral influence towards a better life, beautiful to behold if you could shut your eyes to the physical agony and the gruesome blood-shedding. But such is not the mission of the death of Christ in the purpose of God, nor have Paul or the other apostles so thought. The death had immediate connection with man's relationship to God—every man who is joined to Christ vitally, there died to the world and world died to him—there was the shedding of blood without which the Scriptures plainly teach there is no "remission of sins."

The brief clause, "He was buried," has far more significance than most think. It is a confirmation of the death which must be perfectly authenticated. The story of the death is quite complete, even before Joseph of Arimathea appears on the scene, and the taking of the body, its burial with all the details given in the gospels, is quite full. The sepulcher was sealed, a guard of soldiers was placed over it, thus doubly confirming the burial of a dead body.

Risen With Christ.

2. The burial paves the way for the second main proposition—the rising again of Jesus from the dead. Paul preached to the Corinthians that Jesus rose again from the dead. We must read here between the lines, and we do not question but that Paul presented the fullness of this doctrine—using it first to enforce the necessity of the new life—for "you have been risen with Christ." This refers, of course, to the spiritual resurrection, very forcefully represented in the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

But Paul also was preaching a gospel to secure a man spiritually resurrected against all future contingencies. Man must die physically, and even to the Christian the passing into the unknown hereafter is something disturbing to contemplate, but Paul gives him the glorious hope that he shall rise again from the dead even as Christ, who was the first-fruits of them that sleep, rose from the dead. The Gospel of the death of Christ and of the resurrection of Christ is not narrow, in fact, offers the only platform broad enough on which can be built the doctrine that man needs to deliver him from the curse of sin which is now upon him, a curse hereafter infinitely greater; and, to enable him to have the positive blessing of resurrection.

Women.
All women are different until conquered, after which they are all alike.—Life.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

The letter of Mr. Cunningham in the Gazette of Saturday night, is in receipting reading to an outsider, and the writer of this is wondering whether his statements regarding the position of the business men of Janesville, or even of some of them is correctly given, and if so how many of them want to go on record as countenancing conditions that have obtained in Janesville for some little time.

The mental horizon of any merchant that would make the statement attributed to him by Mr. Cunningham is to say the least somewhat limited, and it would be not only interesting to find out who these merchants are but fully as interesting to see them going on record regarding their position.

The view point of an outsider who can safely be said to be an absolutely disinterested person should carry some weight, and I assert that the writer of this is safe in assuming that he is voicing the sentiments of the more than occasional shoppers of Edgerton, Milton and Milton Junction, Evansville and in fact all of the towns in the immediate vicinity of Janesville, that Janesville needed a moral awakening, and needed it at the present time as badly as it ever did, and that the committee of fifteen, appointed to investigate conditions, and recommend remedies are within their province, and that they should have the aid and support of every man in Janesville.

The licensing of the saloons in Janesville has made the sale of liquor by the party taking out a license an absolutely legal and legitimate occupation, but provisionally so only. The state has wisely thrown around the vendor of liquor some restrictions regarding their sale, has also the corporation which grants him the license, and the liquor dealer must recognize the conditions imposed lest he have his license revoked.

The conditions under which the license is granted the liquor dealer, grants him much latitude, and can work him no hardship, and the whole-sale liquor dealers' association as well as the brewers' association advise a strict observance of the laws, knowing that the more orderly a saloon is managed, the less chance there will be for anti-saloon agitation.

Judging the cases from the evidence introduced in the recent trials held in Janesville, it would seem very evidence that the parties interested did not observe the law, and we can well dismiss them without any sympathy.

I would like to ask any one of those merchants that have been quoted by Mr. Cunningham as being doleful in the dumps, since when has the patronage of the man who would go elsewhere to trade, rather than Janesville, because it is not a wide open town, been considered of more importance to them than that of the better element, the men and women that stand for the things that are good and pure for all that is implied by the term good citizens and whose trade represents a real asset.

It is not hurting Janesville in the least to have pointed out to it by the committee some means of meeting the conditions which have heretofore existed. It is very necessary at the very public agitation that Mr. Cunningham desires in order to best accomplish results.

The statement is often made that what is everybody's business is nobody's business and that is no doubt true in this case. The officer may not go out of his way to learn of or to prevent violations or perhaps we might say infractions of the law but knowing that there is an awakened public sentiment with an efficient organization back of him good results are certain to follow in increased efficiency of your police force.

The writer of this has heard indirectly that Janesville has had some discussion relative to the removal of screens chairs and tables from all saloons for the purpose of giving an unobstructed view of the interiors, as well as to prevent lounging and hanging on. If correctly quoted one of the Janesville officials has stated that in a recent visit to Edgerton made by him, (where this ordinance is in force) that he noticed school children stop and look in the windows and that he at the same time watched a noisy and boisterous crowd who were singing and dancing in the same saloon. If this was true, the dance could not have lasted long, as the Edgerton saloon keeper is just as anxious to have proper decorum observed in his saloon, as is the average citizen, and a saloon disturbance here is a very rare occurrence.

The wisdom of the screen removal ordinance was seriously questioned by the writer, and it was with much misgiving that he saw it go into force. The results obtained by its passage, and enforcement justify fully the action of the council, and while for a time curiosity did possess some of the children, it soon passed away as other things of more interest took possession of their mind, something akin to the relinquishment of an old toy for a new one.

Some of the liquor dealers are in favor of the screen ordinance, for your average liquor dealer wants to be a fairly law abiding citizen, and the screen removals made possible a far

Tona Vita Overcomes The Trouble In A Few Weeks Time.

There is a remedy that is absolutely certain to build up those suffering from a run down condition. This remedy is considered the most successful medicine ever sold to the public in this country. It is called Tona Vita and it is fast becoming a national tonic endorsed by physicians everywhere.

If you are debilitated, tire easily, have little strength or ambition and are nervous and depressed, get a bottle of Tona Vita at once. You will be delighted to feel your old health and strength returning in a few days time. If you have lost flesh, note your weight before taking and then get on the scales a week later. You will be astonished.

more orderly place with little effort required by the proprietor to keep it so.

This letter is a little more extended than it started out to be, and it is waiving the question somewhat, which when stripped of all unnecessary verbiage is, whether it hurts business to clean up a few plague spots? contention being that it does not. It is well to get rid of garbage at all times more especially when it becomes offensive.

LOCAL TOBACCO MEN MAKE BIG SHIPMENTS

One Thousand Cases Shipped to Eastern Dealers This Week by T. E. Welsh and John Soultman.

Nearly a thousand cases of Wisconsin binders were shipped this week by two Janesville tobacco men to eastern dealers. T. E. Welsh had a consignment of 835 boxes, mostly 1911 binders, to various large eastern dealers and J. Soultman had a shipment of 341 boxes.

These are two of the largest shipments ever made from this point in one week during recent years and indicates considerable activity in the tobacco market. Shipments out of storage from Edgerton this week amounted to 600 cases.

The Edgerton Reporter has the following to say in regard to the 1912 crop:

"Information reaches us that only a very small fraction of the crop was removed from the poles during the casing spell of a week ago. The growers were too busy with other farm work to devote much attention to the tobacco crop at this time while the pleasant fall weather continues. The ordinary farm work is so well along now, however, that at the next damp spell a much larger portion of the crop will be taken down for stripping. Where the crop is thoroughly cured, as nearly all the early harvest tobacco must be at this time, nothing can be gained by allowing it to longer hang in the sheds subject to damage from driving storms or broken by the fall winds. Experienced growers always claim that when tobacco is once cured, early stripping is advisable.

"When so much of the crop has been sold too, growers are naturally anxious to make deliveries at as early a date as possible so there is another incentive for stripping as soon as circumstances will permit. The chances too, are much more in favor of securing the proper degree of casing in the early fall months than later in the season when the danger of too high case comes in cold weather. In no event does their tobacco improve by allowing it to hang in the sheds during the long cold winter months while on the other hand it is generally conceded that it greatly deteriorates in quality. What the packers are most interested in, however, is that tobacco be not taken down in too high case as wet tobacco is the hardest proposition the warehouse men have to contend with. Above all things this is a matter the growers should be most careful about for it causes more trouble on delivery than all other imperfections that might come to the crop.
